B.C. TRAIN SERVICES BEING RESTORED

Island Works Hard To Resume Traffic As Floods Subside

E. & N. Railway Expects Train in This Evening Over Scene of Washout at Langford; C.N.R. Will Require Two More Days to Replace Three Bridges

Thousands Tour Damaged Areas

Goldstream Section Worst Part of Malahat With 150 Yards of Road Destroyed and Stream Now Using Highway Bed

All trains will get through to Victoria within the next forty-eight hours for the first time since early last week.

It will be at least a week before the Malahat is passable, but traffic continues uninterrupted by way of the Mill Bay ferry.

This was the summary of transportation conditions on Lower Vancouver Island this morning as flood waters were subsiding and repair crews were redoubling their efforts.

The Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, with shifts working day and night, expected to get a train through to Victoria this evening and to possibly get train out in the morning.

The C.N.R. officials believe that in two days their first train will reach the city over the whole of the line from Cowichan Lake.

The Public Works Department estimated it would take a week or ten days to get a connection with the Malahat over the washout at Goldstream.

As floods and rain were replaced by fair weather over the week-end, hundreds of Victorians were out to survey the damage done by the storm.

On the Island Highway they all flocked up to Goldstream where the worst washout in the history of the road occurred.

TREMENDOUS FORCE

The force of water which swept through the Goldstream valley was almost unbelievable.

TULAMEEN IS HIT BY FLOOD

River Overflows Banks As Jam Occurs; Town Under Four Feet of Water

As high waters on the B.C. coast were abating to-day, the interior, which has been under a heavy snow blanket, began to get a taste of floods, it was indicated in dispatches received over the provincial police radio this morning.

On the Tulameen River a jam three miles long and thirty feet deep had turned the river waters aside, reports stated.

There were four feet of water in Tulameen streets.

The public works department was frantically trying to relieve the condition.

TWO YOUTHS ARE SENT TO JAIL

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—Douglas Regan and Frank Corrigan, who pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking and entering, were sentenced by Magistrate H. S. Wood to-day to one year in jail. They admitted breaking into the room of P. Allen on January 24 and stealing goods valued at $200.

Magistrate Wood stated burglary was prevalent in the city and conditions should be such that a citizen could leave his home without expecting it to be robbed. He declared it was a magistrate's duty to help certain conditions by imposing fitting sentences instead of being influenced by the youth of the accused or the fact they had no serious police record.

LEAGUE SEEKS TO FREE OFFICIAL

Associated Press

Geneva, Jan. 28.—Officials of the governing body of the International Labor Organization state a movement will be opened to free Largo Caballero, former minister of labor of Spain, who is in jail in that country for alleged participation in a revolt.

Largo Caballero himself is a member of the governing body which corresponds to the Council of the League of Nations.

WHERE SEA AND FLOOD WRECKED ROAD

The extensive damage to Island highways caused by last week's floods are illustrated in this picture taken on the Island Highway, at Cowichan Bay. Telephone poles swinging in the air, supported only by the lines they are supposed to hold up, are seen in the background. The contour of the road is visible at the water's edge where jagged portions are seen sticking out after the sea and flooding waters over the road had caused innumerable cave-ins. Ray Johnson, Vancouver Island Coach Lines driver, is shown in the foreground. Mr. Johnson took several snaps of washouts and floods on the highway between Victoria and Nanaimo. Mr. Johnson made another trip to the area to-day and reported the entire road had gone. Passengers from the Victoria bus had to use the footpath to join the bus on the other side of the washout.

New Unemployment Insurance Fund $50,000,000 a Year

Each Worker to Contribute 30 Cents a Week Under Bill Drafted at Ottawa, Says Toronto Mail and Empire

Canadian Press

Toronto, Jan. 28.—The creation of an annual fund of $50,000,000 to be disbursed throughout the year to Canadian workers is the prime object of the Dominion Government's unemployment insurance bill, according to a special dispatch to The Toronto Mail and Empire from its Ottawa correspondent.

The measure, The Mail story says, was before the federal cabinet Saturday, and received the approval of the full ministry, preparatory to its introduction into the House of Commons to-morrow.

Benefits of the bill to individual adult workers during their period of involuntary idleness would average around $9 a week, according to the dispatch. The contribution which the worker would be called on to make to the fund in order to qualify as a beneficiary would be in the neighborhood of thirty cents a week. The employer would furnish a similar share, and the federal government would make a substantial contribution and bear cost of administration—which has been found in the experience of other countries to amount to about 10 per cent, says The Mail and Empire.

FEWER SEATS IN ONTARIO HOUSE

Canadian Press

Toronto, Jan. 28.—Further reduction in the personnel of the Ontario Legislature was foreseen to-day by Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn. The premier said that before the next provincial election the number of seats would be lower than the present total of ninety, but he would not specify the extent of the reduction. Redistribution in 1933, during the time of the Henry government, reduced the membership from 112 to the present figure of ninety.

Scott is believed to have had the motor of the car running while he was filling the tank and when the motor backfired the explosion occurred.

Those who fail to make the grand prize will be eligible for awards of $50 for the best in each province.

The essays were written in school hours under supervision of teachers, the subject being "Australia." Conditions provided they should be about 2,000 words.

School principals selected the best written in their schools and forwarded them to a special committee of Prof. H. G. Parr of Victoria College, and John Gough of the Provincial Normal School, who then chose the four best in the province.

Relief Speeded In Big Areas Under Floods In Lower Fraser Region

BRITAIN UNDER WINTER'S GRIP

Danish Vessel Sunk in Collision; Much of France Has Snow

Associated Press

London, Jan. 28.—The British Isles and most of Europe were gripped by severe weather over the week-end.

The cold had largely subsided yesterday, but much shipping continued to shelter in the west and east coasts of England.

The steamship Clan MacDougall collided with the Danish vessel Bjerthelm, which sank. The crew was saved. The trawler Guiding Star sank in Bridlington Bay during a blizzard, but its crew also reached safety.

Heavy snows were reported in north England and in Scotland.

Mountainous seas off Ireland damaged the trawler Night Hawk and washed its mate overboard. He was drowned.

Nearly all of France was swept by snow and wind. Traffic was hindered in Paris early yesterday, but later the weather cleared.

Deep snow in the Balkans interrupted communications.

COLD IN INDIA

All India shivered in a bitter cold and more than a score of deaths were reported from it. The cold drove hosts of wild animals in Bengal into cultivated regions in search of food and they terrorized villages. One herd of 300 elephants stormed 200 huts.

CALIFORNIA-B.C. AIR RECORD SET

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—A new commercial air transportation record was created to-day with the arrival in Vancouver of a plane from Oakland, Cal., the 875 miles having been covered in four hours and twenty-seven minutes.

Seattle, Jan. 28.—Pilot Joe Smith and Co-pilot Lloyd Leah of the United Air Lines to-day established what is believed to be a new record for flying time between Oakland, Cal., and Seattle on commercial lines, the 744 miles being covered in three hours and forty-six minutes' flying time.

Attempt On Life Of the Ex-Kaiser

Chef at Doorn Said to Have Made Attack; Sent to Germany

London, Jan. 28.—According a dispatch to The London Daily Mail from Doorn, it is asserted in some quarters there that a chef for former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany attempted to kill him.

As a result, The Mail asserts, the chef was suddenly sent to Germany about ten days ago after fifteen years of service in the former Emperor's household.

The report says the "official" version was that the man suddenly showed signs of disease he had contracted in the trenches during the war and was removed to an institution in Germany.

"Rumors that are prevalent," says the paper, "were responsible for the 'unusually quiet nature' of Wilhelm's seventy-sixth birthday celebration Sunday."

It is rumored in Doorn, according to The Mail, when the chef was sent away ex-Princess Hermine, Wilhelm's wife, expressed the opinion that "the Temporary Depots at Abbotsford and Other Towns Crowded With Refugees; First Eastbound C.P.R. Train Out of Vancouver This Evening

C.N.R. Will Resume Service To-morrow

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—Whipped by a northeast gale, storm-tossed flood waters in the Fraser valley presented a scene of desolation to-day as pumps at Sumas, working at capacity since Saturday, made little progress.

Boats manned by relief workers braved the stormy floods to carry supplies to human beings and animals marooned on isolated high ground. Houses and other buildings floated in a confusion of debris on thousands of acres of inundated farmlands.

Hospitals and temporary relief depots in Abbotsford, Chilliwack and other towns were crowded with refugees and more were being rescued in boats to places of safety. In the face of the threatening waters, however, a few hardy souls returned to their homes on the higher lands to attempt salvage of their property.

TRAIN SERVICE

News from the transportation front to-day was more cheering.

Regular train service across the province completely tied up for a week by slides and heavy rains, will be resumed to-night and to-morrow by both the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways.

Canadian Pacific officials announced their lines were clear east of Ruby Creek, eighty-one miles east of Vancouver, and they stated arrangements were being made with the Canadian National to operate trains over that line on far as Hope and thence east over the C.P.R. lines. The first regular transcontinental train will leave to-night at 8.30 o'clock.

ONE WEEK LATE

The train which left here Saturday bound on the night of January 19 over the C.P.R. was freed from imprisoning snow at Yale and left Kamloops at 7.05 a.m. to-day, one week late to the minute.

All trains measured by the clocks are now clear. Four Canadian Pacific westbound trains were stranded at Kamloops Saturday night and their passengers routed through the United States for Vancouver.

BY NORTHERN ROUTE

The Canadian National westbound train due here last Monday was freed over the week-end from near Boston Bar and was scheduled to arrive to-day at Prince Rupert, its passengers to be brought here by steamer.

The C.N.R. announced its transcontinental service would be resumed Tuesday afternoon. The officials stated they would use Canadian Pacific trackage from Hope to Brocket, at which point interchange facilities are located.

Ex-husbands Must Pay Alimony In B.C.

Law Is Tightened to Force Collection From Those Who Evaded Payments

Ex-husbands in British Columbia will have to pay. They can no longer slip up on alimony payments and duff their ex-wives to collect.

This was the meaning of a change in court rules approved to-day by the provincial government and explained by Attorney-General Gordon Sloan, who put the alteration through.

Briefly it gives court orders for alimony the same force and effect as supreme court orders, which means they can be enforced in the usual manner.

Previously the process of recovering back alimony was very limited and unsatisfactory.

The local profession has been seeking the change for years.

It is estimated there are thousands of dollars of unpaid alimony accounts in the province. Knowing how hard it is to collect, ex-husbands have refused to pay the amounts the court allotted to their ex-wives, if it allowed.

Under the new rule, it will be possible to cite for contempt a person who does not abide by the judgment.

EXPLOSION BURNS BOY

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—Lighting a match in the dark to ascertain the contents of a can in the garage of his home, Fred Joplin, fifteen, of the 1300 block of West Eleventh Avenue, was burned about the arms and legs by an explosion which followed. The can contained gasoline.

Associated Press

Moscow, Jan. 28.—The ashes of Valerian Kuibesheff, who died Friday were carried to Red Square yesterday on the shoulders of Joseph Stalin and Kuibesheff's other comrades of the Communist party's all-powerful Political Bureau.

The brain of the late Soviet leader was given to the Institute of the Brain for scientific study.

The ashes were placed in the Kremlin, wall behind the tomb of Lenin, occupying a niche near the remains of Sergei Kiroff, the Leningrad Soviet chief and Political Bureau member whose assassination last December 1 was followed by wholesale arrests and executions.

Yesterday was a day of mourning throughout the U.S.S.R.

Dick Whitson, one of the owners of the place, said he believed the blaze had started from a cigarette dropped on a sofa Saturday night by one of the dancers.

Surprise Evidence At Hauptmann Trial

Takes Clothing To Flood Areas

With supplies of clothing donated by the Women's Workroom and other supporters of the movement in Victoria, J. G. Corry Wood, provincial commissioner for the Canadian Red Cross Society, left for Vancouver yesterday evening and proceeded this morning to flooded areas in the Fraser Valley to make inquiries as to what can be done to relieve distressed families.

Mr. Wood will report to-night to officials of the Red Cross here on what is required. The officials will then likely appeal to the citizens here on the things Mr. Wood asks for.

Note Book Sketches of Ladder and Window Placed Before Jury

Flemington, N.J., Jan. 28.—Notebook sketches of a window and a ladder, such as the articles which figured in the abduction and murder of Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, went into evidence against Bruno Richard Hauptmann to-day as a prosecutor subjected him to a withering fire of cross-questioning. The surprise was a sensation.

The accused man also admitted he had withheld from his wife his "discovery" that a box which he said the late Isidor Fisch gave him contained $14,600 in Lindbergh ransom gold certificates.

MEDICINE MEN TELL FLOODS TO STOP

Strange Indian Customs Practiced to Scare Evil Spirits Away; Cruel Treatment of Child Halted By Police

Indian medicine men for a time were restored to their ancient significance in the tribes during last week's flood in Island centres. Several days of chanting and strange worship marked ceremonials aimed to scare away the "flood devil" and bring conditions back to normalcy.

Stories of the weird rites were brought to Victoria from men who heard and saw the Indians in different places.

On Saturday Ray Johnson, Vancouver Island Coach Lines driver, saw the Kitsilah Indians and was successful in getting a picture of the bedraggled aforesaid "bad" man, used to scare off the devils, who is shown in the accompanying picture.

Mr. Johnson learned that it was the practice of the selected man to go out in the forenoon, strip himself in the icy waters of the river and bathe there until nightfall, when he would return to the tribe. In the meantime the Indians chanted all the day in their efforts to scare away the devil whom they believed to be responsible for the floods.

The superstition regarding the chosen man was also told Mr. Johnson. The man who performs the job is generally regarded by the tribe as the one who has been the "bad man" during the last year. The theory is that his presence in the water will scare out all other devils.

The man in the accompanying picture had a head-dress of sheep's hair and his face painted in gaudy colors. An Indian blanket covered him while in his hand he carried a wand which was supposed to assist him in expelling all the evil spirits.

Election Speculation As British M.P.'s Meet

Heavy Legislative Programme Divides Interest With Discussion of Probable Date of Polling As Parliament Resumes Session

Associated Press

London, Jan. 28.—Speculation on the date and plans for the coming general election overshadowed a heavy legislative programme to-day as parliament reassembled after the holiday recess. The houses met a day earlier than originally planned, because of the overwhelming amount of work to be done.

Mr. Hon. David Lloyd George's striking re-entry into the political scene, the disorganizing of opposition criticism of the National Government and the government's suddenly increased vigor in public defense of itself provided plenty of material for discussion in the lobbies of the two houses.

No date has yet been fixed for the election. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has declared it will not be in the near future, but the signs are pointing more and more toward October or November.

NEW FACTOR

Mr. Lloyd George, energetic seventy-two-year-old New Dealer, has both the government and Labor guessing as to how much of a part his recently announced scheme for economic and social reconstruction will play in the election. Up to the time he threw that political bombshell, it had looked as though the fight would

JAPANESE EXPECT CHINA AGREEMENT

Spokesmen at Geneva Say Understanding For Peaceful Development of China Is Sought

Associated Press

Geneva, Jan. 28.—Official Japanese sources to-day said Japan and China were about to sign a five-months agreement for peaceful co-operation in the development of China.

A dispatch from Peiping, China, late yesterday, said:

Rumor of a renewal of Japanese military activity along the border of Chahar province is increasing as a result of widespread reports that a crisis has occurred in Sino-Japanese peace negotiations.

The Japanese, it is stated, want the discussions to be held at Changkiakow or Tatsu, on the Chahar-Jehol border, while the Chinese are understood to wish the negotiations to be carried on here.

Many Japanese troops are moving toward the Chahar, while the announcement of a constitutional form, signalling Mongolian autonomy from North China is under discussion in Japanese military circles.

Reports from Tientsin said Japanese officers of a conference there during negotiations should be held at Tatsu

Plymouth Announces Larger "Style" Car

Advanced Engineering Developments Incorporated in Design of 1935 Models

Largest and Most Beautiful Plymouth Yet Presented Is Claim

The 1935 Plymouth, built by Chrysler, has important engineering developments to again emphasize Plymouth's claim of being "The Best Engineered Car in the Lowest Priced Field." The new car is now creating much interest at the Begg Motor Company's showrooms.

Streamlined in design, the new car is the largest and most beautiful Plymouth ever presented. The torpedo-shaped, all-steel body is three inches wider than previous models and the car is three inches longer—189 inches from bumper to bumper.

The new Plymouth introduces an entirely new type of ride, the result of four advanced engineering developments. These four developments that combine to create the sensational ride are—balanced car weight, new semi-elliptic (taper-leaf) springs made of steel, double-action shock absorbers and a side-sway eliminator at the front.

A revolutionary high compression engine gives the Plymouth increased power and economy. It is the most efficient and durable of all Plymouth engines. Plymouth is again the only one of the big volume low price cars with floating power.

The new Plymouth is presented in six beautiful body types—the business coupe, two-door sedan, deluxe rumble-seat coupe, deluxe four-door sedan, deluxe two-door touring sedan and deluxe four-door touring sedan.

The two touring sedan models have built-in trunks in the rear, large enough to hold a steamer trunk or three suitcases. They were especially designed for long-distance traveling as well as city driving.

"FLOATING RIDE"

The most spectacular feature of the new Plymouth, if any of the new features can be said to excel the others, is the "floating ride," an utterly new sensation in the motoring world.

The new Plymouth springs have two main leaves, each of which is wrapped around the shackle bolt. The lower leaf is segmented at the centre to allow for elongation. The leaves are thinned down at the ends, affording greater softness with greater strength.

In the 1935 Plymouth, the front and rear springs carry approximately the same weight and have approximately the same frequency. All parts of the chassis ride the same.

The entire weight of the new Plymouth has been re-distributed, to add to the "floating ride." The engine has been moved forward eight inches, over the front axle, and the body has been moved forward six inches.

With these changes, the car weight is the same on both axles. Previously, the rear axle and springs supported 60 per cent of the total car weight, while the front axle and springs supported 40 per cent.

CALIBRATED IGNITION

Spark advance always has been a limiting factor in efficient engine operation. Ideal engine performance is achieved when the spark is advanced just short of the "ping" or detonation point. Fully advanced spark, however, has always resulted in spark knock during moments of acceleration. Plymouth engineers have developed a vacuum spark control working from the vacuum in the intake manifold. This vacuum is greatest when the engine is operating at constant speed and there is practically no vacuum when the engine is accelerating rapidly.

VENTILATED CLUTCH

Plymouth engineers carried their fight against unwanted heat to other parts of the car as well as the engine. They developed a ventilated clutch and a ventilated generator to carry off heat in these important working parts. The new Plymouth differential is equipped with four bronze washers to take the thrust of the gears, thus reducing friction in the differential case.

SYNCRO-SILENT TRANSMISSION

The new Plymouth has syncro-silent transmission, silent in all gears. The gears are helical cut. The shifting collar has a friction ring which contacts first and then acts as a brake before the gears are engaged. The engagement of the gears is made smoothly, easily, without clash. The transmission case is of one-piece construction with the "stack" integral instead of being mounted separately as in previous models. This eliminates the necessity for a remote control shifting mechanism.

HYDRAULIC BRAKES

Plymouth cars have had hydraulic brakes since the first Plymouth was built six years ago. The improved hydraulic braking system on the 1935 Plymouth is the product of years of research, tests and experience with over a million Plymouth cars.

BODY CONSTRUCTION

Plymouth engineers, pioneers in the development of the all-steel body, incorporated all of their knowledge and years of experience in the development of the body for the 1935 car. The result is a lighter, yet stronger, more rigid chassis assembly lower than ever before.

While these changes in body construction and location were made primarily to add strength for the protection of passengers, they also enabled the engineers to build more room in the bodies. The new Plymouth seats are three inches wider. The floor has been lowered 3½ inches, permitting more leg and head room. The passengers ride with their legs extended straight downward, instead of being stretched forward as in the past.

A "STYLE" CAR

The new Plymouth is a "style" car, designed to capture the imagination of modern motorists. The car is streamlined from its massive new radiator shell back over the slanting windshield to the tapering (beaver tail) rear deck. Ventilating hood louvres are under the fenders. This gave the designers a real chance to do some distinctive work on the hood.

An improved simplified system of ventilation has been installed on the Plymouth. Ventilating wings have been eliminated, replaced by single windows with single controls. Ventilating openings have been built under the front seat to provide more complete circulation of air in the car. The cool ventilator has been enlarged, and is equipped with a screen.

Arrival Of New Autos Announced

New Dodge and Plymouth Models Arouse Great Interest

Begg Motor Company One of Oldest Firms in Province; Big Organization

Arrival of the first shipment of 1935-model Dodge and Plymouth cars is announced by J. M. Wood, manager of the Begg Motor Company Limited, Yates Street.

The Begg Motor Company, one of the largest automobile firms in the province, has been in business for more than a score of years. It has branches in Victoria, Vancouver and Kelowna. Since 1918 it has been under the management of Mr. Wood.

In the first years of its career the Begg Motor Company handled the Cadillac and the Dodge cars. Subsequently it was agent here for Buick, Nash, Chalmers, New Republic trucks and Chevrolet. In 1929 Begg Motors became closely identified with the Chrysler Corporation. The firm now handles Dodge, DeSoto, Plymouth, Chrysler and Dodge trucks. Nowhere else in Canada are all the products of the Chrysler Corporation handled by the same firm.

J. M. WOOD

G. W. Lovell is sales manager in charge of the Chrysler and Plymouth divisions, and J. Evans is sales manager for the Dodge, DeSoto and Dodge trucks. The sales staff, said to be the largest in the city, consists of ten men.

One of the outstanding features of the Begg organization is the service department, which has been under the management of W. H. Bailey for the past seventeen years. It is equipped with the most up-to-date, factory-approved machinery for the repair and maintenance of all units in the Chrysler Corporation line of cars. Specialists are in charge of each phase of the work performed in the service department. The Begg Motor Company is noted as possessing one of the most completely equipped stock rooms on the Pacific Coast.

"In spite of adverse weather conditions, the new cars have met with an enthusiastic welcome from the Victoria public," said Mr. Wood today. "We have been most gratified to see the tremendous interest these handsome new models have aroused."

Congregation Hears McGeer

Civic Service Held in Calgary Before Western Mayors' Conference

Calgary, Jan. 26.—The congregation at a great civic church service in the Church of England Pro-cathedral of the Redeemer on the eve of the western mayors' conference here heard Right. Rev. Ralph Sherman, Bishop of Calgary, yesterday evening, declare the "church's right to give moral direction to changes in social structure."

At the bishop's invitation Mayor G. G. McGeer of Vancouver gave an address in place of the sermon, in which he expressed the conviction the solution of Canada's troubles could be solved "not by looking forward, but by going back to ancient truths."

After an opening service marked by the singing of the familiar "Old Hundredth" hymn and the Twenty-third Psalm, Bishop Sherman placed himself at the head of the vast congregation and led them in prayer that the mayors' conference might be "guided, aided, elevated, over-ruled" by God.

MUST CHOOSE

Mr. McGeer said Canadians were the people of a nation in trouble whether in Calgary, Vancouver, Halifax, Montreal or Winnipeg. He reminded his hearers of the words in the first lesson from the Book of Joshua read by the Bishop: "Choose ye this day whom ye shall serve."

In a scathing indictment of what he charged was a violation of the biblical law "Thou shalt not lend upon usury," Mayor McGeer warned the congregation: "You cannot have the gold standard and the Golden Rule standard at the same time. Continued disregard of the law would bring disappointment to many who forgot that "you cannot get into Heaven with a bible in one hand and a mortgage on your neighbor's land in the other."

"We have made gold our god," Mayor McGeer told the people. "We have made gold $40 an ounce while wheat remains at 70 cents a bushel."

Much time and money were spent to dig gold from one spot in the earth and carefully hide it away in another, where it could not even be touched.

BIG PAYMENT

Charging the nation's troubles spring from breaches of the laws against stealing and covetousness, he invighed against a system which he said bankrupted nations and provinces and ruined cities. Before he left Vancouver his city had been called on to pay "$5,000,000 in usury." At other times thousands of men had come seeking work, but there were no clothes to clothe them for their work.

He called for a system of "christian democracy" to end the spectacle of starvation in the midst of plenty.

Drove Too Fast To Wedding

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—Pat Whalen of Point Roberts, Wash., was driving a prospective bridegroom to his wedding in North Vancouver when police arrested him on a charge of driving to the common danger. He was released on $50 bail and he and his passenger left at a more moderate pace to keep the important engagement at the altar.

Relief Speeded In Areas Under Floods In Fraser Region

night by boat from Seattle after rerouting from Calgary. Five Hundred of the 2,000 seats were to leave Wednesday aboard the liner Niagara for Australia.

CHINESE LOST LIFE

Discovery of the body of an aged Chinese man, lying in a foot of water near Cloverdale, brought to nineteen the total of known dead since the storm struck British Columbia January 19. Identified as Lee Che of Ladner, B.C., who had gone to the district to look for land recently, he was believed to have perished from exhaustion.

Reports of the death of George Beaven, second victim of a slide at Ogden in the Bridge River district, and of Emil Hautala, Canadian Pacific Railway section foreman, swept away in a slide at Glenogle, reached the city yesterday.

Of the total death toll, twelve died in slides which have thundered across the length and breadth of the province and seven died from other causes directly attributable to the storm.

STORIES OF HEROISM

Stories of hardship and heroism filtered into Vancouver from the stricken area, but the total extent of gallantry of police and civilians aiding in the relief work will wait of necessity until communications can be re-established.

Corporal Carl Ledroux of the provincial police learned that Mrs. William Vickerson was in a critical condition with a broken hip in her home near Abbotsford. With an assistant, he spent ten hours fighting through five miles of flood and snow by tractor and sleigh to reach the woman. He discovered she was too badly hurt to be moved, but she was well cared for, he reported.

WIRES RESTORED

Telegraph and telephone linesmen have accomplished the seemingly impossible in restoring services to parts of the valley. A new crew set out today to Chilliwack to attempt to untangle the mess of fallen poles and broken cables in the district. Service from Vancouver to Chilliwack was resumed yesterday evening.

Communication has also been made possible with Shalath and Bridge River as the result of a hazardous trip on snowshoes made by two telephone repair men. They tramped twelve miles to the top of McGillivray Pass Saturday, spent the night in a shack there, mended the damage and tramped back Sunday.

Linemen struggled through deep water to replace broken wires in the Sumas area, employing boats where possible but suffering untold hardships. Their efforts enabled the vital pumping station to continue working since Saturday.

GREAT QUANTITIES PUMPED

Five hundred thousand gallons of water were being sucked each hour to-day from the flooded area and carried down the Vedder River to the Fraser, but still the waters rose.

The situation was not altogether gloomy, however, as water in the Vedder dropped five feet in two days and danger of the Vedder dikes breaking appeared past.

Water was still gushing through a 400-foot break in the Sumas River high level dike but, with the floods ten feet deep in places, authorities stated if a rise of another two feet occurred the water would reach the level of the Fraser River and be carried to sea.

MOVE BACK TO HOMES

Damage to the Clayburn Company's brick plant at Kilgard, where seventy-year-old Tom Hough and Joyce McGee, aged five, lost their lives in a landslide Thursday night, was not as heavy as was first reported. Families were moving back to homes not touched by the slide and officials reported reconstruction would be started at once.

Hon. F. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, returned to the flooded area between Abbotsford and Chilliwack to-day to continue his supervision of relief operations. Col. F. C. Bell, head of the Red Cross organization in the province, accompanied the minister to survey conditions and give advice for relief measures.

BY WAY OF SEATTLE

In the transportation field, Canadian Pacific officials reported three westbound transcontinentals due here last Monday and Tuesday had been moved from North Bend to Kamloops and consolidated there with Kettle Valley No. 11, which left Nelson January 19 and which had been held at Spence's Bridge since it reached there after a three-day tie-up by slides at Brookmere.

The sixteen-car train traveled via Sicamous to Kelowna, where the passengers were transferred by barge to Penticton to take a Kettle Valley train. From Yahk, they would proceed south over the Spokane International to Spokane, Wash., and thence to Seattle. There they would take the Canadian Pacific steamer to Vancouver, arriving Tuesday evening.

Passengers aboard that train included a number of curlers from Vancouver who participated in the British Columbia bonspiel concluded at Nelson January 18. Among these was MacBraden, prominent several years ago in Winnipeg Opids.

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—Everything possible is being done to alleviate suffering in the flooded Sumas reclamation area of the Fraser Valley, Hon. Frank M. MacPherson, Provincial Minister of Public Works, told the Canadian Press by telephone from Abbotsford to-day.

The minister is in Abbotsford to make a survey of the stricken district and supervise provincial relief.

"There is no shortage of food in any of the towns we have had reports from," he said. "Blankets and clothing are being provided for those who have been forced to leave their homes, but more are needed.

MILK DELIVERED

"The waters are receding in several districts and traffic is beginning to open up. Milk deliveries have been resumed in the Chilliwack district, mostly by sleigh and boat.

"The four pumps at Vedder crossing are working and pumping some 500,000 gallons of flood water a minute into the Fraser River, which dropped five feet in forty-eight hours. The water has also gone down in South Sumas and is being held from rising in the north, where it showed a rise of a few inches last night.

"Food was taken by dog sled to twenty-five people marooned in Cultus Lake, southwest of Chilliwack, since last Monday."

To-day the minister was inspecting the district south of Abbotsford, where a number of cattle are reported marooned on high ground without fodder. Feed will be taken to them.

MANY AT WORK

Hundreds of men in repair crews continued their efforts, repairing washed out and slide-ridden bridges, highways and railroads, reinforcing dikes and restoring wrecked telegraph, telephone and electric power lines.

While the Sumas floods seem under control so far as threat of destruction to the area is concerned, thousands of people in the Sumas and Fraser valleys generally face the prospects of flooded homes for a long time to come. The work of removing women and children to various centres continues. Where possible, men are remaining in the attics of their homes and using rafts to care for their cattle subsisting on knolls above the water.

Refugees from flooded farmlands continue to arrive at the larger valley towns. Three hundred were housed at Abbotsford over the week-end and sixty at the Pitt Meadows municipal hall.

Twin daughters of Harry Badek, only a few days old, were taken from their marooned farm in the Sumas area, with the remainder of the family, by police. The family had taken refuge in the hayloft of the barn.

DEATHS REPORTED

Reports told how a landslide had struck the Clayburn Company's brick plant at Kilgard, on Sumas Mountain. Tom Hough, seventy-year-old pioneer, was believed to have perished when the slide carried away ten dwellings near the plant. His home was gone and he was missing.

Three-year-old Joyce McGee also died in the slide which drove thirty-five families from their homes. Damage to the plant runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

George Beven died at Shalath in the Bridge River district. He suffered the fatal injuries when a slide swept his cabin 200 down a mountainside at Ogden, Bridge River. Walter Ross, seventy, also in the cabin at the time, was killed and a third man injured.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

J. Kuhar, thirty-five-year-old Slav, was rescued by police and taken to the hospital at New Westminster in an exhausted condition after being marooned by floods in the Queensborough district four days. Without food or fire, he had also been weakened by illness. He had made an attempt to reach dry ground on improvised stilts, but had collapsed and barely made his way back to his home.

NARROW ESCAPES

Reeve Solomon Munsalem of Maple Ridge municipality, escaped with his life when he and Councillor Percy Burnet took a boat in the Tamandon area to examine a dangerous bridge.

The water was swift and the boat, caught by trees, upset and threw its occupants into the water. Reeve Munsalem swam to a tree and managed to hold on until rescued by means of a rope. Councillor Burnet swam to a log and was also rescued.

MAIL BY BOAT

Charles Sheffield, postmaster at Crescent Beach, near the United States boundary, traveled forty-two miles to Vancouver by boat Saturday to bring the first mail from that flood-stricken area. He reported cattle being slaughtered near Blue Bay rather than let them die from starvation or drowning. Many weatherboard and small summer cottages had been wrecked, he said, and the Great Northern Railway tracks in the district were piled high with debris.

The Pacific Highway was closed south of Cloverdale and was almost impassable for several miles west of Fry's Corner as water flowed over the road.

Meanwhile, in the cities, measures were taken to relieve flood sufferers throughout the inundated districts. Supplies were sent out through the emergency organization of the Red Cross Committee of Vancouver.

Airplanes started flights from Vancouver on Saturday, dropping supplies at various isolated farm places and logging camps.

TIMES GETS THROUGH FLOODS AND WASHOUTS

Over Roads Reported Impassable Truck Driver Battles Way to Bring Newspapers to Surprised Subscribers

By HAROLD PALMER

"Yes! Our Times paper arrived to-night" was the appropriate comment of practically all subscribers of The Times on Vancouver Island during the days of last week's flood.

Service in the motto of Albert Jones, circulation manager, and cheerfully under the most difficult conditions it was put into actual practice by employees of the circulation department.

ROADS IMPASSABLE

All roads were reported impassable; regular stage schedules were cancelled; trains were at a standstill. Almost everything in the way of highways and byways had been officially closed to traffic and yet the circulation manager insisted that the thousands of Times subscribers, many of whom were isolated from civilization, must have their daily papers. Regardless of weather conditions and the numerous prevailing hazards, Tony Redford, up-island truck driver, battled the elements to deliver parcels of newspapers along the highland highway. His brother-in-law helped him part of the way. Another member of the staff also helped him in the difficult task.

TRIP DESCRIBED

A typical trip during the flood days is described.

"Bang!" what was that?" I asked Tony.

"Dunno," he replied as our overworked motor pulled us out of a fairly-deep hole which we submerged by a couple of feet of water. We both became somewhat dubious and commenced wondering how far.

At this point, which happened to be just past the Malahat end of the Mill Bay Ferry, the motto of service would carry us, as we were still faced with a drive of over 100 miles of "impassable roads."

"AT YOUR OWN RISK!"

"Stop! we were commanded by a government road watchman who was keeping company with a red light on sentry duty.

"If you go any further it is at your own risk." However, head office orders were more important than roadside suggestions so we ploughed on, eventually reaching Duncan via Shawnigan Lake, Cherry Point and Cowichan Station.

The few odd Duncanites who were strolling around the town, chiefly watchmen and a few storekeepers homeward bound merely grinned when we referred to Nanaimo as our destination and advised that others, whose state of sanity seemed to be rated on a level with our own, had tried to get through but were compelled to return.

One truck and a few private autos had actually disappeared in washouts, they told us.

But we forged ahead and shortly afterwards we reached the intersection of the Island Highways and Crofton Road.

SHIPPING WATER

Slowly and cautiously we crept into the waters of the overflowing river. Down we went deeper and deeper. The exhaust was under water the engine commenced to sizzle and the water was flowing through the doors of our car.

ONLY CAR TO GET THROUGH

But we got through to Nanaimo. People were skeptical when we told them of the trip and thought the truck had never left the city until we produced the papers to prove it.

As far as is known The Times truck was the only car to succeed in making the trip from Victoria to Nanaimo that day.

Two miles away at Langford it was heard "roaring like an express train" according to one resident.

About 150 yards of the highway in the deepest section of the valley was swept away, and the river channel diverged to the roadbed, after a huge jam of logs occurred. The road surface to a depth of three feet was washed out at a point about 400 yards past the first bridge.

The log jam saved the three bridges further on as they were not battered by floating trees.

A protective railing at the side of the highway was completely smashed.

MOTOR TRUCK LOST

At the start of the flood a truck owned by Layrite Nurseries was stalled. When the driver got back to tow it out, the vehicle had disappeared in the torrent.

Crews are blasting out the rock at the roadside to dam the stream and turn it back into its channel.

Sections of the old cut-off road to the Goldstream hotel, which runs beside the river, disappeared entirely.

Between this road and the first bridge a tree five feet in diameter fell across the highway.

Near the first bridge a mudslide coned down partially covering the road.

Beyond all this it was reported there were fifteen separate washouts on the Malahat as far as Mill Bay.

The E. and N. is driving piles for a new 500-foot trestle for the full length of the washout on their track just this side of Langford. Hundreds of sightseers watched the operations yesterday.

How the tremendous volume of water acted was nowhere better demonstrated than at this point.

Millstream runs through a six-foot flume under the railway embankment there.

This could not handle the flood, so the water backed up and made an artificial lake. Swirling around, it ate away the embankment, tore out telegraph poles and finally the track slipped away for 500 feet.

The water reached a depth of fifty feet in spots, but is now back to normal.

Temporary repairs have been effected by the E. and N. at other bad washouts. Permanent work will be carried out later.

BRIDGES GONE

The C.N.R. took a bad loss on bridges.

Spans across Wolfe Creek, Deed Creek and at mile 78, near Colwood, were wholly or partly carried away.

At Mile 40, between Sooke and Shawnigan Lake, a bad washout occurred.

From further up-island came the story of recovery from the floods.

At Shawnigan Lake conditions improved considerably over the week-end. Ray Ditchburn, with Ab McDonald and Tommy Roberts, visited their summer cottages yesterday.

"The road into the lake is fine," said Mr. Ditchburn. "We went over on the ferry and visited our cottages. The houses are all free of water now and the lake dropped six inches yesterday.

"The flood conditions were about the same as in 1909, when a log jam caused the lake to rise and flood the summer places. I remember my dad making a mark on the wall at that time, when the water was six inches over the floor of our cottage. The water was just as high last week. It was eleven feet above the level of last summer."

One party had succeeded in getting out over the Shawnigan cut-off road, cutting back to Mill Bay from Cousen's store.

The islands in the gulf did not escape the flood.

A Ganges Harbor, Salt Spring, one resident of McPhillips Avenue was rescued by boat, and there were four feet of water on the road and three inches over house floors.

Stowe Lake Road was under three feet of water, blocking traffic. All schools were closed on Salt Spring for the first part of last week.

Duncan reported traffic going through in both directions with flood waters down. Detours were necessary from the highway near Cowichan River, and at Corfield Hill, due to slides. The road by way of Cowichan Bay is still impassable.

The Cowichan River changed its course entirely near the Duncan golf links. The fifth and eighth tees there will have to be rebuilt.

Many homes at the foot of Cowichan Lake were vacated as the lake rose to abnormal heights.

Long Air Voyage At 35,000 Feet Planned

Wiley Post Hopes to Make Plane Speed Record in Stratosphere Between Los Angeles and New York

Kansas City, Jan. 28.—Wiley Post, holder of globe-circling and altitude records of aviation, was here to-day, conferring with Jack Frye, president of the Transcontinental and Western Air Inc. on his proposed stratosphere speed flight between Los Angeles and New York.

Post, who said he contemplated a transcontinental stratosphere flight between the two points at an altitude between 30,000 and 40,000 feet in eight hours, declined to-day to talk about his conference with Frye here.

Post, it is understood, came here to talk to Frye about the T.W. and A. becoming one of the sponsors of his efforts in the proposed stratosphere record attempt.

man should be liable to capital punishment."

HELD DINNER

Doorn, Netherlands, Jan. 28.—On a snowy mid-winter evening Former Emperor Wilhelm II of Germany yesterday sat down with his children, his children's children and a few selected guests in Doorn Manor at a small dinner in celebration of his seventy-sixth birthday.

The ex-kaiser, in excellent health and looking younger and fresher than many of his company, drank his usual one glass of wine after dinner and spent the evening in lively conversation.

Most of the guests left to-day. Many notables of Doorn signed the Hohenzollern birthday register yesterday.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning Wilhelm gathered his family in the gift room and received felicitations.

The former monarch examined with great interest the countless gifts that poured in on Doorn Manor from many places on the continent and abroad. The sun shone brightly after Saturday's severe snowstorm, and after many dreary days and weeks.

The former kaiser presided at the dinner in a general's uniform. His guests included Jonkheer Siskings, a representative of Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, the governor of the province and the mayor of Doorn.

Election Speculation As British M.P's Meet

certainly be between the government and Labor when the polling takes place, but now political circles wonder whether there will be a third powerful element, a Lloyd George element, which will make the outcome highly uncertain.

The government has widened and intensified its "educational" programme among the voters. The chief sparkplug of the campaign is Sir Kingsley Wood, Postmaster-General, who is telling of the accomplishments of the administration in the newspapers, on billboards, in the movies and on the platform.

MARTIAL LAW ON ITALIAN ISLAND

Athens, Jan. 28.—Reports received here to-day said the situation was tense on the Island of Kalymnos, owned by Italy, and that sailors from Italian warships were patrolling the streets, with martial law in force.

Churches were closed yesterday in protest of alleged Italian interference with religion, the reports said.

Italy recently vigorously denied reports of disorders on the island and that she had sent warships there.

CARIBOO NEEDS HAY SUPPLIES

Cattlemen Faced By Feed Shortage; Much Snow There

Canadian Press

Williams Lake, B.C., Jan. 28.—This town, centre of the great cattle country of north central British Columbia, has been marooned by snow, with the Pacific Great Eastern train in a snowslide near Pemberton since last Tuesday, and roads practically impassable.

A tunnel had to be cut from every house in town to get to the street. Some residents had to hang their doors off the hinges before tunnelling a way out through the snow.

As the week-end provisions began to run low in the stores.

The mercury went skidding from zero to 32 degrees below, where it froze solid and broke the glass. The weather has now moderated and people are busy uncovering their homes.

Cattlemen in the surrounding country are hard hit, with prospects of a shortage of hay. In some instances men with thousands of cattle to feed have not enough hay to last for three weeks. It is said the best gold mine in the Cariboo to-day would be a field of huge haystacks.

Citizens generally, and prospectors and miners, though inconvenienced now, are rejoicing at the prospect of abundance of water for next summer's operations.

Milwaukee Cathedral Destroyed By Fire

Associated Press

Milwaukee, Jan. 28.—Historic St. John's Cathedral, one of Milwaukee's landmarks, was ruined early to-day by fire of unknown origin which spread to all parts of the eighty-eight-year-old building despite the work of all available fire crews and equipment and menaced adjoining residences.

of Kokstlah, was to the effect the medicine man carried out the same worship, but in addition to bathing himself in the river, the medicine man took with him a child about four years old, stripped it and immersed it in the river several times.

E. and N. workmen, under A. Sturrock of Victoria, superintendent of the line, were incensed over the treatment of the child, but did not interfere as they did not wish to cause trouble. Proper authorities were informed, however, and provincial police took the matter in hand, forcing the medicine man to stop the cruel treatment of the child.

Nine Women On Trial For Lives

Astonishing Scenes in Hungary at Husband Poisoning Hearing

Debreczen, Hungary, Jan. 28.—Amazing scenes were enacted to-day when nine women, charged with poisoning their husbands and other relatives in order to get their property, were placed on trial for their lives.

Among the state's evidence were sixteen exhumed bodies as well as many phials of poison and dissected human organs which made ghastly exhibits in the court room.

Some of the defendants, especially the seventy-two-year-old alleged leader of the husband poisoners, Mrs. John Hagy, were dressed in widows' weeds as though lamenting the deaths of the very men they are accused of having murdered.

"I have derived no pleasure from my widowhood," Mrs. Hagy—who also is accused of having poisoned four others—testified, "so why should I have murdered my husband?"

It was expected most of the prisoners if convicted will be hanged and that the others will be sentenced to life imprisonment.

CHILDREN'S AID WORK

IN A RADIO BROADCAST DR. KINCAID, president of the Children's Aid Society, recently set forth the requirements of that very useful organization, which call for $2,000 to be devoted to preventive work for this year.

He pointed out that the Children's Aid Society functions under the provisions of the Infants' Act of B.C., which defines its objects as being, with others, "the protection of children from cruelty, the safeguarding of the young, the care and control of neglected and dependent children." He added, that the latter part of this definition—"the care and control of neglected and dependent children"—refers to those children whose home conditions are so bad that the court has declared them to be neglected in the legal sense, and has ordered them to be removed from their parents and made wards of the society until they are eighteen years of age. In these cases the society now places the children in carefully-selected private homes, where they receive the care and interest which every child needs and is entitled to, but which the parents had failed to give them.

The society pays for their maintenance and supervises all the time both the homes and the children. Their health and school progress and all other details are constantly watched, and the results of this method of care have proved to be far better in every way than when the children were all maintained in one institution. The first part of the definition—"the protection of children from cruelty and the safeguarding of the young"—is considered to refer to the society's responsibility for protecting children from neglect and harmful influences in their own homes, and this is known as the preventive side of the work.

With tact, skill and patience it is sometimes possible to remedy the causes of the bad conditions and to make their own homes fit for children to be brought up in. Whenever this can be done it is much better than breaking up the home by removing the children permanently and making them wards of the society. While the home troubles are being straightened out it is often necessary to take the children into the care of the society temporarily. By placing them in good foster-homes for a time they are given a fresh start in health and behavior, so that, when they are returned to their own homes, they help to maintain the improved atmosphere there.

In the case of wards a court order is made against the municipality concerned to pay to the society a "reasonable sum" for their support; but the preventive work has no statutory provision under the act for municipal, or other, support, so that, not only the moral but the entire financial responsibility falls upon the society. The act is designed to bring, through the medium of the society, the support of the socially-minded public behind the child bereft of a normal environment. It calls upon the kindliness of private citizens to make every effort to save for a child its own home by eliminating if possible the bad influences which are undermining its physical and moral health. Moreover, every taxpayer has a stake in this matter, because a successful case of preventive work avoids the necessity for making a family of children wards, and saves the municipality being made legally liable for their support, perhaps for many years.

A special appeal is being made for the sum of $2,000 to cover the estimated cost of this preventive work for the year 1935. The society is composed of members who subscribe $1 or more a year, and it is hoped that all who are interested will send in their names for membership with as much as they can possibly spare.

A LITTLE MATTER OF ARITHMETIC

THE APPLICATION OF THE Vancouver city council for legislative authority to reduce the city's bond interest charges by 50 per cent, the rejection of the application by the provincial government, the further insistence of Mayor McGeer for a reduction to an undefined extent on the ground that Vancouver positively could not meet its obligation in this respect, followed by the tentative proposal of a public works programme to cost $200,000,000 must be bewildering to those bondholders who have not been able to familiarize themselves with the various details of the final proposal.

Vancouver obviously has no intention of trying to take this huge sum. Its programme is based upon possibility of the adoption by the country of the mayor's scheme of monetary reform. And subject to that reservation even $200,000,000 is away under the prospective aggregate, for the railroads and other important utilities have yet to be heard from, and if they, succumbing to Vancouver's aberration, get their adding machines to work they might easily add another hundred millions to the total, for purposes of symmetry.

After all, what are $300,000,000 on paper? What is an extra cipher or two between friends? Incidentally, Vancouver Island should not be outdone by Vancouver in these arithmetical performances. Can we not work up a preliminary budget of $100,000,000? Victoria is older than the Terminal City, and can base its total upon its priority in years. Besides, it is the capital of the province, and that ought to be good for a cool $50,000,000.

And what of the other provinces of the Dominion? After all, British Columbia is well down the list in population. Ontario has five times as many people and 50,000 more square miles of area. If B.C. can work up a total of, say, $500,000,000, can not Ontario prepare a budget for $3,000,000,000? Perish the thought! Toronto itself has enough gratuitous possibilities to account for that whole total. And Quebec, with its 594,000 square miles—more than [illegible] greater than British Columbia—never would allow Ontario to get at the head of this class in arithmetic. It would work up a programme of four or five billions without allowing for small change.

The maritime provinces, feeling that their reputation as the champions of provincial rights was at stake, would present something worthy of a nation of the country which claims to have some of Canada's best mathematicians. The prairie provinces, of course, would see that they were not left out in the cold, except in a climatic sense.

On the whole, Canada's budget on the Vancouver model would be so vast that it would make President Roosevelt's programme look like small potatoes; the various bank note companies which print the country's currency would have to quadruple their capacity, and the government mint would become the largest structure in the British Empire. In fact, if we are going to cherish delusions of grandeur we should do it on a proper scale. There is no use looking like a sprat on paper when we can draw a whale just as well.

NAILING A LIE

SIR JOHN SIMON, GREAT BRITAIN'S Foreign Secretary, has proved through an action in the courts that he holds no stock in any armament firm. The case was one of slander against the Rev. J. Whitaker Bond, a non-conformist minister, who last November charged that Simon was against the peace ballot because he was interested in the armament business. The Rev. Mr. Bond now has publicly apologized for the statement he made. But Sir John's counsel, Mr. Norman Birkett, K.C., warned the public that if a similar charge were repeated, criminal proceedings would be instituted. Lord Chief Justice Hewart sat on the case and deplored what he described as increased evidence of the slander of British statesmen in recent years. Sir John Simon, incidentally, paid the costs of the action himself.

Not only did the Foreign Secretary make it clear that he no longer holds armament stock; but he also said that he "never knowingly bought any." Sir John Simon possesses a very fine judicial mind, and Mr. Birkett, who took the case for him, is one of Great Britain's outstanding attorneys. So one would have thought, therefore, that the case for Sir John would have been disposed of much more satisfactorily if the words "never knowingly bought any" had not been used. To become possessed of stock means, at least to the ordinary person, that it either is bought or received as a gift.

The record already had put Sir John clear of the armament stock investment taint, because it will be recalled that early last year he announced in the House of Commons that after "revelations" which had been made to him he had disposed of the stock he held. He naturally realized that as Foreign Secretary of Great Britain, largely responsible for that country's international diplomacy, to hold armament stock would cramp his style in his work in behalf of peace.

THE JINGO TALKS

IN THE JAPANESE PARLIAMENT to-day, Admiral Oumi, Minister of the Navy, said the people of Japan must be prepared to see through any naval race which may come eventually—"even if we are reduced to eating rice gruel."

Although Oumi declined to assure Parliament that there would be no naval race, he said the Japanese government "is doing its best to avoid such competition."

It is difficult to understand the workings these days of some minds. Why, for example, does Admiral Oumi suggest that the Japanese people may be "reduced to eating rice gruel?" If they will rest content with the progress they have made in the last half a century and pursue their peaceful way, no other nation will interfere with them.

It is not a bit of use Japan quarelling with either China or Russia. She might win all the battles on the field with China; but she can not expect to subdue 475,000,000 people if they refuse to be subdued. And as an unnamed Russian statesman said in New York recently, there will be no war between Russia and Japan because Japan had waited three years too long.

If Japan wants to avoid the "rice gruel" diet the best thing she can do is quit talking war.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

CLEAR ON ONE THING
The Saint John Telegraph-Journal

On a basis of moderate distribution he, Mr. Bennett, outlined projects to cut the cankor out of capitalism, chiefly by taxation and social insurance on a contributory basis. All this is, of course, in line with the trend everywhere, whether the system is capitalistic, Communist, Fascist or Nazi, and it therefore becomes necessary to await much further detail ere any judgment can be delivered. One point in Mr. Bennett's remarks is of special note: when he mentions the state he means that and not the government, as is so often done in this type of speech, to the confusion of all clear thought.

A STRIKING PARALLEL
The Regina Leader-Post

There has been good showmanship in the arrangement of the speeches. The first one was reminiscent of the fat boy in Pickwick—(wasn't it?)—who announced "I am going to make your flesh creep" or words to that effect, thus catching the interest of the listeners. But somehow the second and third speeches seemed to catch in part the air of another country. It would be the height of unkindness to suggest that Mr. Bennett has not written his own speeches, but it is impossible not to feel that he has had in their preparation the advantage of intimate contact with someone who has been very close to recent developments south of the line. The parallel in the speeches of Mr. Bennett and that of the President of the United States delivered within a few days of each other, containing elaborate references to the need of abolition of the dole, to unemployment insurance and other social developments, may, of course, be purely coincidence, but it is a curious commentary that two individuals of very different outlooks on life should have come to similar conclusions.

Loose Ends

Mr. Shaw can see no harm in it—Dr. Townsend can see no flaw in it—The Scots can see no sense in it—And we can see no gratitude whatever.

By HUGH HUTCHISON

SEXPERTS

MR. BERNARD SHAW, who will always flame to hot on anything if it makes a headline, has lately come to hot in England in favor of sexy motion pictures. He says it is all nonsense to outdoom pictures for their sex appeal, which does no harm, and he seems to have clashed in his views with the bishops of the Christian churches, which is not extraordinary, since Mr. Shaw, like Mr. Wells and other of England's best thinkers, are vigorous pagans.

Mr. Shaw and Mr. Wells have a habit of writing with sly frankness and a casual love about matters of sex. Mr. Shaw in various books has discoursed on the subject in a fashion which would not be permitted in a decent home and has related his own experiences in a fashion which must be rather embarrassing to his relations. Mr. Wells, in his recent biography, has probably achieved a new record in the breach of reticence by a recital of his sex life, which rather makes an ordinary man feel uncomfortable—that is, to realize that he belongs to the same race as Mr. Wells.

To these two aged gentlemen, Mr. Shaw and Mr. Wells, matters of sex have become commonplace and they discuss them with no more interest and no more hesitation than they would use if they were discussing the weather or the state of politics. To men like them, whose experience has been wide, salacious movies are no danger and of little interest. They are past that stage. But they forget, in their advanced age and ripe wisdom, that the young don't react to such things as they do. The young lack their experience and their wisdom, and the young, it is to be hoped, have different notions and a larger sense of delicacy.

It is impossible to corrupt Mr. Shaw and Mr. Wells at their age. It is quite possible to corrupt young people in their teens. But probably the menace of censorship is almost as great as the menace of disgraceable old gentlemen like Messrs. Shaw and Wells. It nearly always succeeds only in censoring the truth about things while permitting the spurious lies to reach the public. Censorship and fellows like Messrs. Shaw and Wells will remain difficult problems for civilization.

WHY WORK?

IN THE United States just now the larger economic delusions of the day are coming to a startling focus in what they call the Townsend Plan. If the scheme is adopted, every person reaching sixty years of age will be pensioned off at $200 a month, provided he spends the money monthly in the United States and does no work. It would be financed by a sales tax which, on the basis of last year's retail turnover, would cost an American seventy cents extra for every dollar he spent. And the pressure behind the scheme is so great, so many millions are demanding it, so many Congressmen have fallen for it, that the administration is having a hard time to stop it.

This finally puts into understandable form one of the chief illusions of the time, the delusion that idleness will increase prosperity. If Mr. Townsend is right in believing that pensions and no work at sixty will end the depression, why not start the pensions and idleness at fifty and produce a boom? Why not start the pensions at birth and let us all be rich by the time we come of age? Why not stop work altogether and let us all become millionaires? And if the theory is true, why haven't the twenty million people on the dole in the United States and the million in Canada produced a wave of good times?

Major Douglas and Mr. McGeer, of course, foresee this difficulty in their Plans, though the latter, Dr. Townsend seems to have overlooked them. Major Douglas's national dividend to all citizens is to be based entirely on the nation's production. If it produces more, they will live. Mr. McGeer proposes to provide wages only for those who work and produce new wealth. Both of them recognize what Dr. Townsend seems unable to realize—that wealth is produced by activity and also that activity of some sort is the natural and healthful condition of man.

WE SCOTS

A GRIZZLED SCOT of my acquaintance stopped me on the street the other day and drew me into a doorway to tell me that I was in very bad odor with my fellow Scots. He said he supposed I knew the reason. I said I supposed I did. I recalled that I had lately said some very mean things about Scottish literature and our Scottish habit of making up for its lack of quantity by a great fuss over the little we have.

My Scottish friend told me privately in the doorway that a lot of the fellows in the Burns Club were very mad. They had thought of several alternatives. One was to offer me physical chastisement, which would have been bad enough, and another was to write a letter to the paper, which, I suppose, would have been still worse.

"But a' in a'," said my friend, "we thoght it would hurr-r-r-t ye maist to just ignore ye. We thoght ye'd say ye flatter-r-r-ed if we was to tak' any notice o' ye. We thoght we'd be revenged on ye by just payin' no attention to ye. I guess it hurr-r-r-t ye—but, man, it took a deal o' self-control for us to keep quiet, ye ken, and us fair-r-r burstin' to write to the editor and tell the truth about ye! Aye, 'twould have been awfu' and no mistake, but as I said to the lads, if ye write about you laddie, he'll say write some more stuff about ye, for he's Scottish himself and that stubborn!

"But listen," said my Scottish friend, drawing me further into the doorway and looking up and down the street to make sure that we were not observed. "I'm tellin' ye this in confidence, but I think ye were right at that! There was never a poet more overrated than that same Robby Burr-r-r-ns, and as for Carlyle, well (he looked up and down the street again), I'm tellin' ye, I could never mak' head nor tail o' him, and that's a fact. But, y'understand how it is. That's all in the family."

Aye, man, we Scots understand sin anither.

COMPLAINT

I CLOSE this column with a private note of complaint. I mean, if there is anything that I object to, it is ingratitude and we have lately witnessed out here a gross display of it. When the cold snap was on, we went out daily in the freezing north wind and put grain for the birds in sheltered places. We scattered it all over the porch and the concrete walks. We fed our guests in a big way. They came around in great flocks to enjoy our offerings.

But look what happened. When the snow melted, there was our porch a quarter of an inch deep in grain. There were the garden walks littered with it, a distressing mess. But the birds were nowhere to be seen. They scorned the meals we had provided (at a cost of seventy-five cents and intense suffering in the north wind) and went back to the woods to eat worms. Not a word of appreciation from them, not a nod of recognition in the mornings, just a callous contempt, now that the cold snap is over. We don't mind providing the food for the starving, but it is a bit hard to have to wash their dishes.

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES

(From The Times Files)

Paris, Jan. 28.—Forty miles above Paris toward the headwaters of the River Seine, the floods to-day are beginning to fall and the assurances of engineers that the rising tide has reached its crest here are being received with hysterical joy.

* * *

Thomas Redding of Victoria West is circulating a petition among the residents of Victoria West praying that the City Council arrange to provide a highway through the Songhees reserve.

* * *

If the present intentions of the parks committee of the City Council are carried into effect, the people of Victoria will be given an abundance of music at Beacon Hill Park during the coming summer.

* * *

That Victoria is not advertised sufficiently in the cities of the United States is the opinion of W. F. Best, who has just returned from a tour of the principal cities on the continent. He says that you cannot get any information in any of the principal hotels on the continent in regard to Victoria.

* * *

The Victoria rugby team will be offered February 22 for the fourth and final game of the McKechnie Cup series with Vancouver, to be played in Victoria, and Victoria will probably accept it, despite the fact the match is four weeks off, and a long time between matches has never done Victoria any good.

Just Folks

RURAL SCENE

Sometimes within his field of grain
I see the farmer stand and stare,
Watching the evening railroad train
Go by and leave him dreaming there.

I wonder to what urge he yields
That causes him with listless brow
To have unfurrowed still the fields
And turn his back upon the plow.

So common must be passing trains,
So hard the task that earns his bread,
To me who at our Pullman panes,
You'd think he'd never turn his head.

And yet were I a farmer now
Like him, I'm very sure that I
Would yield my back upon the plow
And dream a bit as Wales go by.

THE BEST OF YOU

Though much of you in death will pass,
The best of love, the tender smile
Is hidden by the snow, the grass,
And leave no crushed a weary while.
The best of you will never go;
It does not perishing with faith.
This steadfast courage that I know,
This shine and shining flame of faith!

There will not change, although your dust
Drift on the wind from pole to pole;
Some portion of your truth, your trust
Will still be vital in my soul.
It cuts the perjuring with faith.
You will be near in days of strife,
And in my heart your hopes will cast
Through dark, embattled hours of life!

SPITEFUL INCOME TAX

To the Editor:—There are undoubtedly many British subjects amongst your readers who wish to make repayment claims but who perhaps do not realize that there is a set time limit involved.

May I remind them that claims for the year commencing April 6, 1934 (or notice of intention to claim) must be lodged with the chief inspector of taxes not later than April 5, 1935.

THE OTTAWA STAGE DRAMA OR FARCE

To the Editor:—The present political jockeying bout now formulating at Ottawa will prove interesting, humorous as well as instructive. Instructive, in as much as we can arrive, at a degree, as to the opinions that our administrative minds have about we of the common herd.

Mr. Bennett—to be—has been regaling us in dulcet tones as to his change of mind and his desire to bring down legislation for the many, instead of the few as heretofore. Abundant have been his promises, that his political foes, The C.C.F., is equally profuse in promises of statutory legislemain, says that they will support him in such measures, in as much as he has stolen or absorbed the planks or promises which they have preached for decades and that they are on common ground and of one mind. Maybap! but with this difference. The Hon. R. B. Bennett knows what he is doing.

He began by taking financial control from the people through their representatives at Ottawa and placed it in the hands of a monopolistic private company, aided the C.P.R. at our expense and imperiled our own railroad so far as he dare, built up statutory barbed-wire protection for special interests and passed enactments in behalf of financial associations, refused the plea of British Columbia in particular and the other provinces in general for a joint meeting of federal and provincial representatives to change the B.N.A. so as to pass enabling and equitable legislation to overcome our present condition, failed to pass legislation to purge our Securities and Company's Acts from its more than apparent and glaring imperfections.

Then he vented content and feeling that in doing justice to his clean he was certainly entitled to a return to power and at the very least a baronetcy. But his complacency was very disturbed by the objections of the provinces and to add to his discomfiture was the actions of his political associate Hanry, in whose ingratitude he could only see an effort to usurp his Conservative crown. The humor of it is to see the dignified and erudite R.B.B. donning, if possible, a more vivid red bathing suit than his beta-mate Woodward of the C.C.F. and skipping blithely over the sands of opportunity and plunge into the rolling surf of promises, and beguiling all and sundry to follow him into the land overflowing with work and wages and wages and work.

WOMAN HIT BY TRUCK KILLED

Miss Kate McKrill Victim of Accident in Vancouver

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—One person lost his life and four others are in hospitals, one of them in a serious condition, as the result of traffic accidents here over the week-end.

Miss Kate McKrill, fifty-year-old music teacher of Dawson Public School, died in a hospital Saturday from injuries received when she was struck by a runaway delivery truck on Robson Street. The truck, used for bread delivery, was parking at the summit of a steep incline while the driver went to make a delivery. When the brakes suddenly failed the vehicle careened down the hill backwards. Mounting the curb, it struck Miss McKrill on the sidewalk and crushed her against a telephone pole.

David Urquhart, his son David, Jasper Thompson and his daughter Sylia were taken to a hospital suffering injuries received when their automobile was in a head-on collision with a street car here late Saturday evening.

David Urquhart Jr., was the most seriously injured, receiving a possible fracture of the skull and other injuries. His condition was reported as serious. The other three were less seriously hurt and their condition was reported as good.

Vancouver Japanese Boy Is Drowned

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—The body of Kazuhi Towota, eight-year-old Japanese boy, was recovered by police yesterday from the waters of False Creek a few minutes after he had been drowned while trying to cross in an improvised boat.

Workmen who helplessly witnessed the tragedy said the boy was paddling across the creek in a large tin can which he had salvaged from a city dump. When he was about the middle the can tipped, throwing him into seven feet of water. The boy did not reappear on the surface.

It was the second drowning fatality in two days at nearly the same spot. Late Friday William Kaczuchuk, sixty, lost his life when he walked behind an unloading garbage truck and was swept into the creek by a deluge of rubbish.

Your Family's Income Doubled!
Until the youngest child becomes of age

Here is a remarkable plan of Life Insurance for the man with young children. It relieves him of a great anxiety—that of providing a sufficient income for the growing family until they are self-supporting.

The Imperial Double Income Policy provides in the event of the policyholder's death, while his children are young, that there will be paid to the family until the youngest child reaches a self-supporting age an income equal to 10% of the face value of the policy. The usual income from a good investment, of course, does not exceed 6%.

A $10,000 Policy on this Plan would provide $100 per month ($1,200 a year) during the income period and then pay $10,000 in cash to your beneficiary—perhaps your widow—as a nest egg for her old age.

You are now assured this income—when so much income is guaranteed by a similar amount of money could provide under any other plan—and the principal sum is left intact.

Here is real family protection.

SOCIETY HAD ACTIVE YEAR

Retiring Directors Re-elected By Cowichan Agricultural Body

Duncan, Jan. 28.—The annual meeting of the members of the Cowichan Agricultural Society, which has been in existence for sixty-six years, was held in the Agricultural Hall to-day. President E. D. Evans was in the chair. The directors' report and financial statement were presented. The report of the directors showed considerable activity during the year. Mention was made of the successful efforts in having leases of Indian lands to Orientals discontinued. The endeavour to have the matter of dangerous shooting on and over highways extended so that it is not permissible in an organized district as well in municipalities.

Reports were made of the recent Farmers' Institute meeting in Victoria, in which matters affecting farmers were given attention. The finance report showed that the fall fair held on September 6 and 7 showed a credit balance of $252.55 as against $470.03 for 1933. The gate receipts were $100 less than 1933, and this drop was attributed to the fair being held during Labor Day week.

The net revenue from the hall account was $960.97 as compared to $897.08 in 1933.

Repairs to the hall and grounds during the year were responsible for the drop in net revenue. During the year the roof of the hall was repaired, a new entrance arch erected and rewiring of the hall was commenced to meet the requirements of the electric code.

The refinancing arrangements completed last year with the bondholders have enabled the society to bring their depreciation values up to date and all obligations to the bondholders are also now up to date.

A resolution to amend the constitution so only British subjects could be directors was defeated.

DIRECTORATE

The six retiring directors, Col. R. D. Helmcken, R. Hartland, E. C. Hawthornthwaite, R. C. Walker, E. G. Sanford and F. B. Carberry were re-elected.

The question of more equitable taxation on farm lands caused considerable discussion and the directors were instructed to meet the taxation authorities with a view to having the inequalities regulated. A resolution urging that all police and Alsatian dogs be muzzled when at large was carried, and the various provincial, municipal and city authorities will be asked to put this into effect.

A. E. Peterson recently appointed a member of the provincial control board for potatoes and vegetables, was asked to advise the members on some points of the scheme.

A meeting of the directors will shortly be held to select a president and first and second vice-presidents.

LESS CRIME IN OAK BAY REPORT

Municipal Police Chief Completes Annual Statement; Efficiency Indicated

During 1934 there was a noticeable absence of serious crime in Oak Bay and the police department was successful in recovering 92 per cent of property stolen, Chief Jean Symes reported in his annual statement on the work of the municipal force.

A decrease of twenty-one in the number of court cases conducted in the municipality was shown. There were forty-five convictions, three detentions, one committal and thirty-five withdrawals, the latter being road and poll tax prosecutions which were paid, it stated.

Two or four persons injured in motor accidents were killed.

"We continued the policy of warning motorists in minor offences, and conducted what may be termed educational and corrective measures throughout the year, with the gratifying results of having fewer accidents and fewer people injured," the chief said. "There is no doubt that this personal contact has received the co-operation of the motorists as a whole and is reflected in the great reduction of accidents for the year 1934."

MANCHUKUO TO FIX BOUNDARY

Associated Press

Tokio, Jan. 28.—A Foreign Office spokesman to-day held the "ambiguous character of parts of Manchukuo's frontiers" was partly responsible for last week's clash between Mongolian and Manchukuan border patrols.

He added it was expected the affair would be speedily settled by local Manchukuan and Mongolian officials.

Crouch Returned For Ninth Term As Reeve

Saanich Electors Sweep Him Into Office With Record Majority; One Change Made in Council Personnel; Several New Faces on Esquimalt Bodies For 1935

With a record majority Reeve William Crouch was returned as reeve of Saanich for his ninth successive term in the municipal polling on Saturday. One change was made in the personnel of the council, this being in Ward Three.

In Esquimalt, where Reeve Alex Lockley was returned by acclamation, only three of six retiring officials who sought re-election were successful.

In Oak Bay all candidates were returned without opposition when nominations closed a week ago.

Reeve Crouch was given a majority of 1,107 over George McWilliam Sr., his nearest opponent. The other two reeveship aspirants, Price D. Wilson and John Reid, failed to poll half as many votes as Mr. McWilliam.

The only elections for council vacancies were in Wards Two, Three and Seven. In Wards Two and Seven the incumbents were returned with substantial majorities, while A. G. Lambrick, nominee of the ratepayers' association, ousted Councillor G. A. Ventnight in Ward Three.

On the school board Trustee William Tomes was re-elected for his fourth successive two-year term, with Captain Nathaniel Gray. Both had large leads in a field of four.

ESQUIMALT

Thomas H. Rodgers headed the Esquimalt poll for councillors on the first count. He was only three votes ahead of Councillor Albert Heald, who was re-elected, however. Frederick G. Eaton was the other successful council aspirant. For the school board Trustee Mrs. Sarah Ring was returned, with Major George Sisman. James E. Painter Jr., police commissioner of the municipality for several years, was defeated by George H. Kinch. The complete count in both municipalities follows:

WOODSWORTH SAYS BENNETT TINKERS

Verdun, Que., Jan. 28.—The choice before the people of Canada, according to J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, is between capitalism and socialism, not between capitalism and the "tinkered up" form of the present system he says Premier R. B. Bennett is advocating.

"I do not think capitalism can go on much longer," Mr. Woodsworth told several hundred members of the Verdun C.O.F. Club Saturday evening while a few miles away Mr. Bennett was addressing the Montreal Board of Trade.

Cowichan-Quamichan Ward—T. C. Robson (elected), 78; W. S. Gwyn, 69.

Comiakin Ward—R. Stevenson-Chapman (elected), 78; W. B. Hammond, 37.

Railway Worker Killed By Slide

Report Comes of Death of E. Hautala Near Golden, B.C., Last Week

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—Emil Hautala, forty-six-year-old section foreman on the Canadian Pacific Railway, was killed early in a slide as he and two others were trying to clear a freight train which was stopped in snow at Stanford, four miles east of Golden, it was learned here to-day. Hautala was married and lived at Golden. The other two men escaped with minor injuries.

The report reached here from British Columbia points and details to-day were scarce.

New Field For Newsprint Mills

Three In Ontario to Make Sulphites For Artificial Silk

Toronto, Jan. 28.—Hon. Peter Heenan, Ontario minister of lands and forests, to-day had reported the organization, following an April investigation by a staff of Pulp and Paper Mills, Limited, and Abitibi Power and Paper Company, of three companies to utilize spruce and balsam fir, the raw material for the production of sulphites, to be used in the manufacture of artificial silk.

The task of converting the three mills to another use estimated recently after Mr. Heenan took office was abandoned. At that time it was expressed as to the feasibility of the plan. Mr. Heenan received definite assurance the financing could be arranged, mainly by United States capital.

The Ontario government will in no way be associated with the undertaking other than the part Mr. Heenan is playing as negotiator between the private financiers.

Time For Changes States Bennett

Canadian Press

Montreal, Jan. 28.—Speaking at the annual banquet of the Montreal Board of Trade here Saturday evening, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett declared the Canadian people were faced with a changed idea of economic life and could choose between reform of the capitalist system or some form of government such as had gained ascendancy in Central European countries and Russia.

"The individual can no longer be looked upon as the dominant factor," Mr. Bennett said. "We must have a social idea as distinguished from what we have called the individual right. Now, otherwise, are we going to meet this situation? You may say 'bunk,' but now, otherwise, are you going to meet the situation?

"The man of the hour," he said, "is he who foresees disaster and prevents it."

There was an entirely new conception of life and its responsibilities, Mr. Bennett said. The obligation of one to his neighbor was never more manifest. He was a Conservative and a lover of old things, but he asked his audience to look at what uncontrolled initiative had done. "When conditions have created a state no longer beneficial to the people as a whole," he said, "it is our duty to lop it off."

The Victoria badminton players who spent the week-end in Seattle participating in the Washington State tournament have been much entertained during their stay. The Seattle Post-intelligencer of to-day carries the following item: "The John Davis Browns, who gave one of the cocktail parties for the visitors from Victoria, postponed it until yesterday since both Mr. and Mrs. Brown have been playing in the tournament. They gave it before the players left to take the boat home. Mr. and Mrs. Roland Christy gave a cocktail party at their apartment at the Marlborough Friday on the arrival of the Victoria group, and also entertained informally Saturday before the dance, as did Mr. and Mrs. Larry Skatteboe. This dance, which honored all the visiting players, was held at Club Villa. The crowd, which had spent the afternoon in shorts or white flannels on the courts in Queen Anne Hall, gathered again in evening clothes and to the strains of dance music. Mrs. John Davis Brown was there in black velvet with green fringed sash, and others among the dancers were Mrs. Corwin Eberting in white crepe, ostrich-trimmed; Mrs. Roy Donaldson, in green crepe; Mrs. Roland Christy, in black velvet with silver top; Mrs. C. B. Mayo, in black and gold crepe with gold trimming; Mrs. Don McClallen wearing black crepe with gold sequins. SOROPTIMISTS ARE HOSTESSES

Officers For 1935 Installed at Successful Banquet Saturday

Mrs. Dorothy Spurr and her fellow officers of the Soroptimist Club for 1935 were installed with due ceremony at the annual installation banquet held in the private dining-room at the Empress Hotel on Saturday evening.

The gathering, which numbers nearly forty, included guests from the mainland club, together with representatives of local service clubs. Seated at the head table were: Mrs. Spurr, president; Alderman and Mrs. F. R. Brown, Mrs. Anna Sprott of Vancouver, regional director; Mr. M. Hatt, president of the Rotary Club, and Mrs. Hatt; Mrs. L. L. Rowe, president of the Vancouver Soroptimist Club, and Mr. Dudley Wickett, president of the Service Clubs Council.

The tables were decorated in a novel scheme which involved giant frosted "snowballs," in which were placed the international flags, representing Great Britain and the United States, while "snow" scenes and cedar greenery added to the winter effect. Each guest's place was marked by a smaller "snowball," bearing a tiny pennant, while a hint of the imminence of spring was conveyed by the pots of pink primula. Mr. F. Mutrie, Miss Olive Heritage and Miss A. Russell were responsible for the decorations.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The ceremony of installing the officers was directed by Mrs. Sprott, each member of the executive lighting a white taper in branched silver candelabra. The officers for 1935 are as follows: President, Mrs. Spurr, vice-president, Mrs. F. Mutrie; treasurer, Mrs. H. S. Hurn; recording secretary, Miss Fozall; corresponding secretary, Miss D. Atkins; directors, Mrs. J. E. Matthews, Mrs. F. Robertson, Mrs. R. Greenslade, Miss Mary Holmes, Miss O. Heritage and Miss Donogh.

Miss Alma Russell, past president, was toastmistress. The toast to "The King" was proposed by Mrs. Spurr, Mrs. Mutrie proposed the toast to "The City," Alderman Brown replying. He paid tribute to the work of the Soroptimist Club, with special reference to its interest in the Children's Aid Society, and urged the members to assist with the efforts being made to re-establish the unemployed, and to assist in the general return to normal life, which should be the goal of all citizens.

The toast to the Rotary Club was proposed by Mrs. Hurn, Mr. Hatt replied. Mrs. Purser Biggs proposed the toast to the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, Mrs. M. Hatt, the president of that group, replying.

Mrs. Fred Robertson proposed the toast to the Vancouver Club. Mrs. Rowe, the president, in replying, thanked the Victoria Club for its hospitality and expressed regret that more of the mainland members could not attend the banquet, as it was impossible for any representatives to come from New Westminster, on account of weather conditions.

The toast to "The Guests" was proposed by Mrs. R. Greenslade, Miss Margery Holmes replying. Miss Fozall proposed the toast to the "Service Clubs Council," to which Mr. Wickett replied, and Mrs. Spurr proposed the toast to "The Regional," Mrs. Sprott replying in her characteristically witty and charming way, leaving with her listeners a word of encouragement and good will.

Mr. Dudley Wickett delighted the members and guests with two vocal solos, his accompaniments being played by Miss Grace Moore.

A vote of thanks to the artists was proposed by Miss Heritage.

Weddings

ALMOND-SAUNBY

A wedding of much interest was solemnized on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. J. W. Saunby, 2020 Sumas Street, when Rev. C. O. MacKenzie united in marriage Catherine Marion, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant R. Saunby, of Hornepayne, Ontario, and Mr. George Stephens Almond, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Almond, 403 Craigflower Road. During the service, the wedding party stood before a background of spring flowers.

Rev. E. Crummy, D.D., an old family friend, gave the bride away, and she looked charming in a frock of pale blue lace, with a cape and deep flounce of matching net, white satin sandals, long white kid gloves and a corsage bouquet of butterfly roses and bouvardia. She was attended by Miss Jean Ault, of Vancouver, in a gown of pale yellow georgette with cascades of frills on the skirt and bodice, and girdled with a Nile green sash. She also wore matching green slippers and a corsage bouquet of yellow freesias and Ophelia rosebuds. Mr. Joseph Almond supported his brother.

Mrs. Saunby welcomed the guests in a smart frock of vintage red crepe trimmed with lace, and receiving with her were the groom's parents, Mrs. Almond wearing a gown of black silk crepe. They were assisted by Mrs. Z. Ault, Vancouver; Mrs. W. H. Whiteley, Mrs. M. Trevor and Miss Agnes Spencer. Mr. Joseph Almond rendered several solos during the evening, and a buffet supper was served from a table arranged with blue candles and vases of spring flowers and centred by the wedding cake. Mr. and Mrs. Almond will make their home in the Bon Accord Apartments. The bride went away in a smart Russian costume and a tricorn hat. Among the gifts was a table lamp from the Y.P.S. of Centennial Church and a silver casserole from the choir.

Nanaimo, Jan. 26.—Saturday evening at 7 o'clock the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Booth, Prideaux Street, was the setting for an interesting wedding, when their second daughter, Eileen Viola, became the bride of Mr. Walton Harold Griffiths, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Griffiths, Rosehill Avenue.

Rev. W. P. Bunt read the service in the presence of immediate relatives, the bridal party standing under a large wedding bell which was caught to a latticework of white streamers and pastel-tinted roses. Miss Lyla Booth was her sister's only attendant. Acting as best man was the groom's brother, Mr. Jack Griffiths, Duncan.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in a stunning creation of golden brown velvet. She wore an Empire model, molded to the figure and featuring a high-necked bodice that fastened in the back with tiny silver clasps. She wore a large profile hat with a ripple brim in the same shade of velvet, matching accessories and a lovely corsage of cream Brier Cliff roses and lilies of the valley completed her attire.

The bride's sister chose a striking gown of wine velvet, molded to the figure, and featuring a bodice of silver metallic. She wore a silver lace turban with wine velvet trimmings and short veil and her corsage consisted of wine-colored carnations and fern.

Following the ceremony the happy couple left for Victoria en route to the Sound cities. For traveling the bride wore a powder blue crepe dress and a brown change cloth coat and brown accessories.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths will reside on Rosehill Avenue.

Lingering Perfumes Are Best For Winter

Rochelle Hudson prefers to use a dropper to apply perfume on wrists and behind her ears.

By ALICIA HART

It is surprisingly true that a good many women still put perfume on their clothes instead of directly on the skin. That is wrong, of course. We all know perfectly well that any perfume odor becomes infinitely more appealing after it has been on warm skin for a few minutes.

Whether or not you use an atomizer is entirely up to you. One school maintains that spraying a scent on neck, chest and hair equalizes the odor and keeps it from seeming too strong. Another insists that a dropper is better and that a drop of perfume behind each ear and on each wrist is the ideal procedure. Try both methods and see which suits you best.

Remember that this is just the time of year to stock up with heavier, more lingering scents than you used in the summertime and early fall. There's a new gardenia, for instance, and any girl who thinks that gardenia is too sickishly sweet for any ordinary use will change her mind once she smells this one. It hints of fresh gardenias, of course, but is is spicy in a refreshing sort of way. You won't tire of it. Neither will your escort.

Do not forget that the cologne you use after your bath should harmonize with your perfume. The same applies to bath powder and toilet water.

Profusion of Early Flowers Contributed to Gaiety of Dancers at Empress

Mother gave me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I took it until all these weaknesses were gone. Now my appetite is keener, I feel good, have color and all pains go with it, so I can recommend it to other girls as the best tonic for growing girls." All druggists. Now size, tablets 50 cts.

GUARD CHILDREN CAREFULLY AGAINST "COMMON COLDS"

At the moment there is an unusual din of coughing, sneezing and nose blowing abroad in the land. Every group has someone missing who is down with the "flu" or grippe, or nursing children who have measles. The number of these latter cases is startling.

As a people we have a habit of saying deprecatingly, "Oh, it's just a cold," and to expect that we will get sympathy but not isolation. Yet, as one mother remarked, we can prevent people bringing colds to our children. There is a tendency to feel that one's cold is one's own business and no one need mind it but ourselves.

KEEP CHILDREN OUT OF CROWDS

There is, as we know, no easier or surer road to a cold than even a chance contact with someone with a red and drippy nose. Children have to be protected forcibly from such encounters since they are incapable of looking out for themselves. They should not be allowed to go to school when they have colds. Measles, chicken-pox, whooping cough and scarlet fever develop from what seemed in the beginning to be nothing more serious than a cold.

Keep children out of crowds. There is no point in running head on into danger and, where there are crowds, there are sure to be some persons suffering with colds or other communicable ailments.

PROTECT THE BABY

Parents with colds should take the trouble to make a small gauze mask, or tie a clean handkerchief over mouth and nose when attending to the baby. Even breast fed babies can remain free from colds when the nursing mothers take this small precaution against breathing cold germs on the babies' unprotected faces.

Keep a child who has a cold separated from the rest of the children. Keep him in bed in a warm room, offer him a light diet, principally of alkaline (or alkaline ash producing) fluids, such as orange juice, lemonade, ripe grapefruit juice, and plenty of vegetable soup, and thus encourage a natural alkalinization of the system which tends to be over acid during a cold.

PUT VICTIM TO BED

Our leaflet on "Home Care of Colds," is available for only a self-addressed stamped envelope, and a request for it from Myrtle Meyer Hedred of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper. It offers suggestions which should contribute to the child's speedy recovery.

But before there is cure there should be caution and precaution, and those counted in keeping the child away from those suffering from colds and, if he becomes a victim, of putting him to bed and out of circulation until he is no longer a menace to his own good health or to others.

EXERCISES AID BEAUTY

By ALICIA HART

Blemishes and other skin imperfections often are caused by poor circulation and improper diet. Any girl with chronic complexion ailments should see her doctor, but one who has nothing organically wrong and who wishes to have smooth, healthy skin, a pleasant disposition and a certain vivacity should watch her health habits.

If your feet and hands are cold a good deal of the time, the chances are that your circulation is bad. Sallowness is another indication. A warm foot bath, followed by an alcohol rub, is an excellent temporary cure for cold feet, but exercise, fresh air and a sensible diet are there permanent remedies.

You may not like to do setting-up exercises in the morning and you may detest sports and long walks. However, if you value your appearance and like to feel energetic, you'll remind yourself that they irritate you far less than yellowish cheeks, listless eyes and a rundown feeling. Consequently, you undoubtedly will start some of the things that are good for you.

You can, with a little self-discipline, learn to enjoy two glasses of hot water before breakfast (an excellent cure for constipation, which often causes pimples and blackheads), stewed fruit instead of pastry for lunch and a huge serving of green salad at least once a day. In time you'll get to the commendable point where you simply can't do without them.

Remember that the best beauty routines are health treatments, really. If your blood circulates properly and your digestive organs are in good working order, the chances are you'll have shiny hair, gay eyes and a complexion that is free from blemishes.

HEROINE OF MOHAWK TRAGEDY

Spurred to superhuman effort in a frenzy to save her son, Hamlin, Mrs. Caroline Diaz, forty, of Stevens, snatched a heroine from the tragedy that overwhelmed the survivors of the ill-fated liner Mohawk. When the only able seaman in her lifeboat relinquished the oars because of frozen hands, she battled the turbulent Atlantic single-handed to keep the cumbersome craft head on into huge seas that otherwise would have swamped them. Twenty persons were saved by her courage. She is pictured clinging to her son on the Ward Line Pier in New York while a crowd acclaims her feat, after being landed from the rescue ship Algonquin.

ROCKETT—MOORE

In a pretty floral setting at the home of Capt. and Mrs. J. J. Moore, 621 Princess Avenue, on Saturday evening their third daughter, Margaret Anne, and Mr. Fred Oliver Rockett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Rocket, of Axminster, England, were united in marriage by Rev. W. J. Thompson, in the presence of relatives and intimate friends. Chrysanthemums were arranged throughout the rooms, the young couple standing beneath an arch of lily red roses and lilies, from which was hung a white wedding bell, while on either side were pots of Calla lilies.

The bride entered the room, escorted by her father, to the strains of the wedding march played by her young brother, Master Frank Moore. As the register was being signed, Mrs. M. Carver sang "Because." Flesh-tinted net over pink taffetta was chosen by the bride for her wedding gown, made with a frilled skirt and frilled capelet sleeves. She wore a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair, and a lovely old gold and amethyst pendant brooch, which had belonged to her grandmother. She carried a bouquet of roses and carnations. The only bridesmaid was Miss Pearl Finlay, in a frock of pastel green lace over satin. She wore a ribbon bandeau in her hair and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums and carnations. Mr. Alfred Best was the groomsman.

A large number of guests attended the reception which followed the service, and they were welcomed by the bride's parents, assisted by her aunt, Mrs. J. T. Boulton. Mrs. Moore wore a most becoming gown of Burgundy red silk crepe, with a soft girdle of the same material and folds of Chartreuse green, with silver trimming at the neck and cuffs. Mrs. Boulton was in a gown of royal blue, with a cape trimmed with silver beads. They both wore corsage bouquets of rosebuds.

The supper table was set with a handsome lace cloth and centred by the three-tiered cake, placed beneath mauve streamers, which were fastened from the chandelier to each corner of the table, and illuminated with tall pink tapers in silver candlesticks.

The guests were served by Mrs. R. Nez, assisted by Miss Florence Waters, Mrs. J. Morrison, Mrs. A. Ramsay and Mrs. M. Herriott.

After their wedding trip, for which the bride left in a frock of blue and grey figured crepe, blue shoes and hat and grey accessories, Mr. and Mrs Rockett will make their home at Qualicum Beach.

CHINESE HERO SAVED BABY

Released Prisoner Gave His Life For Tiny Helen Stam, Story Reveals

Tsinanfu, Shantung Province, China, Jan. 28.—A nameless Chinese prisoner sacrificed his life for little Helen Priscilla Stam, orphaned at the age of three months by the murder of her missionary parents, it was disclosed yesterday.

W. J. Hanna of Toronto, an official of the China Inland Mission, who brought the child here from Wuhu, Anhwei Province, to live with her grandparents, told the story.

After the execution of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stam at Miaosheo, southern Anhwei, last December, the Communist captors of the Stams were on the point of killing the child to avoid the bother of taking care of it, Hanna said, but a man who had been released by Communists only a few hours before from the village prison pleaded for the infant's life.

"Don't harm an innocent thing like this," he urged. "It has done no harm to us."

"Who are you?" a Communist officer asked. "Why do you intercede for the baby?"

The prisoner said he had no connection with "these foreigners," Hanna related, but begged that the baby's life be spared.

"Who will forfeit his life for the child?" the officer asked. The released prisoner volunteered, and was killed on the spot. The baby was spared and was found after the retreat of the Reds in an abandoned house.

Hanna, who made a thorough investigation of all the circumstances of the Stam murder, said this account had been dimly authenticated by Chinese witnesses. They said the martyr "gained great heavenly favor" by his act.

Hanna declared his investigations showed there was no truth to published insinuations that Mrs. Stam may have been criminally assaulted by her captors. He denied also reports that the Stams were driven naked to the execution ground. They were permitted to wear underclothing, he said.

YOUR CHILDREN

FORCING BABY TO LEARN SELDOM GAINS ANYTHING

As it happens, most little children grow as naturally as weeds. Babyhood usually is a peaceful time in which the little body and the little mind are not interfered with.

Probably baby's inability to talk accounts for our keeping our hands off—and his physical helplessness. Otherwise, there's no telling what we would do to hurry things along. The truth is that he is aware of much we do not suspect in these inarticulate months. Nature is his ally in this eating-sleeping-growing time. We tend to our knitting and dish-washing, his bottles and bath, and he has some peace.

Then he loses his protection. He learns to do cute things, to walk and talk a bit and play. We discover then we have a real person in the house, not just a helpless baby. We must get busy, oh so very busy.

READY FOR MORE EXPERIENCE

As it happens this is all right, too. He is ready for more experience. There is more to life now than naps and bottles and sitting in his bed or pen knocking pans together.

But nature has not materially changed him. He is still largely observer and should continue to be treated as such for a while longer. The shaping process can be started gradually, but I think many mothers go at it a bit too early, and a trifle too hard at times. When I say "shaping" I do not mean training exactly, but a certain forcing of himself that may interfere with his rooting.

For instance, he has shown ability to open or shut a drawer. Why then, thinks the family, cannot he pile blocks on each other the way he is shown? If persistence is too great, and he is made to feel he is failing he becomes fretful and won't look at the blocks at all. What we should realize is that when he is ready to build blocks he will do so himself without pressure, coaxing or bestoring.

TRICKS HE WON'T REPEAT

Or he may do a little trick, once, such as lifting the lid of a box off the floor, carrying it over to a table and trying to fit it on where it belongs. Try to get him to repeat it and fuss and coax, and the chances are he will cry or seem stupid and obstinate.

These are only small matters, but they indicate the many ways a beginner can be pestered. Perhaps, in time, he learns a single line or two lines of a verse. He is urged and cajoled into repeating it for the folks. But he isn't accustomed to saying it except spontaneously. It is something he cannot understand, doing things to order. Again he becomes irritable and contrary.

He wants to do what he wants when he wants to. He wants to be about and look on. He likes to be in things but not the centre. He is a happy little detached animal who won't conform if he can help it. He cannot co-ordinate with either hands or thoughts, except in a very, very simple way.

He gives the impression he knows more than he does. He can, however, feel failure, criticism and shame. His feelings are more highly developed than his mind or body. And through them he can be held back. Let him grow himself for a while. Play with him and for him but don't make him the monkey. He will be sweeter tempered.

SILKEN SPINDLES

by Grace Lee Bradshaw

CHAPTER VII

Light from the single bulb fell brightly on the kitchen table, leaving the rest of the room in shadows. Gale Henderson, in her printed coverall apron, finished the warm, soapy water over the plates in the dish pan. Gale was thinking pleasantly of the evening before her. She had a new magazine to read, one Josie had loaned her. Gale had had little time to herself lately. Several nights she'd been at Mary Chandler's—but the baby was better now. Gale had stopped on the way home from work, had met Mary Chandler's grateful eyes, lighted now with hope.

No, Mary hadn't heard from the mill, but she was going to do a washing next day. The Nicolettis—some of them—would stay with the baby. A couple of washings a week and maybe some cleaning, if she could get it, would mean money enough for food and to keep them warm.

Gale felt relieved that Mary had work to do. If only she could go back to the mill—but that wasn't likely. They weren't taking any more on. Hadn't been since they'd begun speeding up the machines.

Gale turned from the table and caught a glimpse of her brother in the doorway.

"Phil," she said, "there's something wrong with the iron. Do you suppose you could fix it?"

The boy in the doorway straightened. Taller than Gale, slender and loosely built, the two resembled each other only slightly. Phil Henderson's bright red hair remained an unruly shock in spite of brushings and applications of cold water. His blue eyes were wary, rebellious.

Obviously Phil Henderson was young, but it was not a young voice that answered, "Can't to-night. I'm going out."

"But, Phil—"

He stopped her angrily. "I tell you I haven't got time! I'll do it tomorrow if I get around to it."

A voice from the next room called, "Oh, Phil!"

The brother and sister looked at each other, then both moved toward the doorway.

"Yes, dad."

The man who had spoken was lying on a couch, propped up with pillows. He was a large man, with grey hair, and his clothing, which looked worn, hung upon him loosely.

"Did I hear your sister asking you to help her, Phil?" he asked.

"It's all right," Gale put in quickly. "It's just the iron I wanted him to fix, and Phil's going to do it tomorrow. It won't make a bit of difference."

"Sure, I'll do it to-morrow," Phil agreed. He swung into the coat he had been carrying on his arm, jammed a felt hat on his head. "Good night, dad."

"Wait a minute, Phil," his father said. "Try to get in earlier to-night, won't you? You need your sleep. I don't like to have you staying out until all hours the way you have been lately."

"Sure—I'll be in early."

• • •

The outer door closed on the young man. Phil Henderson walked down the narrow sidewalk and turned left. He went on several blocks further before he halted in front of a small square house. Phil knocked at the door and waited.

The door swung open and a woman, silhouetted against the lighted room, asked shrilly, "Who is it?"

"It's me—Phil Henderson. Is Ruby here?"

"Ruby? Yes, I guess so. Come on in."

The woman stepped back and Phil entered the house. It was a living-room in which he stood, cheaply furnished and none too clean. Brightly colored calendars and a large tinted photograph hung on the walls. There were paper flowers in a vase on the table and a bewigged doll, wearing a pink sash, stood on the radio.

"I'll tell Ruby you're here," the woman said and disappeared.

Phil lit a cigarette, finished it and was crushing out the flame when he heard footsteps on the stairs.

A short girl, wearing a green dress and very high heeled shoes, appeared in the doorway, smiling. "Hello, Phil," she said.

"Hello, Ruby. Took your time, didn't you?"

The girl came forward, smiling. A bit too plump for the current fashion, Ruby Griffith walked with the assurance of a real beauty. She had a large mouth, vividly rouged, and her rather small eyes held a light, as though there were an excellent joke which she was sharing with no one else.

"Did you get tired of waiting?" she asked.

"I didn't say that—but you sure took your time."

"I was busy," Ruby announced, apparently considering this sufficient explanation.

"Well," Phil said, "shall we get going? It's getting late—"

The girl raised faintly reproving eyes. "I'm sorry, Phil," she said, "but I got to break that date for the movies."

"What do you mean, break it?"

"Now, listen, Phil, don't be mad! You see I had a date with Ed Vogel—I promised him a long time ago and then when you asked me to go to the movies I forgot. But Ed came around to-day and reminded me, so you see I couldn't get out of it, could I?"

"Where're you going?"

"To the dance at Monterey." The girl's lashes lowered. "He's got a car, you know," she said slowly, distinctly.

"But see here, Ruby—"

A knock on the door interrupted. The girl said quickly, "Maybe that's Ed now!" A moment later she had the door open. "Hello, Ed," Ruby said. "Come on in."

The man who entered was not an ill to Phil Henderson, but he was squeezy built, broad shouldered. He wore a gray overcoat and gray hat which he pushed back on his head, revealing crinkled hair, carefully sleked down.

"Hello, Ruby," Ed Vogel said, and then, opening Phil, "Well—are you've got company?"

"I'll be on my way," Phil said, hat in hand. "So long, Ruby. I'll be seeing you—"

Vogel's pale eyes smiled. "Don't let me hurry you," he said in an oily voice. "What's the rush?"

"Who says I'm in a rush?"

"Who says not?" Vogel stepped forward smoothly. "I say so. I say so and what you gonna do about it?" The smiling eyes, the level voice were easily threatening.

Angry blood in Phil Henderson's face. "I'll do plenty!" he snapped.

But Ruby was between them. "Ed—Phil!" she cried. "You've got to stop it—both of you—!"

The door on the opposite side of the room opened and Mrs. Griffith appeared. "What's goin' on here?" she demanded heavily.

"Why—why nothin', ma," Ruby began. "The boys were just having a little argument—"

Vogel's narrow lips bowed. He said, "Good evening, Mrs. Griffith. Me and my friend were just having a little discussion. It was all friendly, you understand—"

Phil Henderson cut him short. "It's time for me to be leaving," he said. "Good night, Ruby. Night, Mrs. Griffith. Vogel—I'll see you to-morrow."

Ruby followed Phil to the door. The last thing he saw before he stepped into the darkness was her wide, crimson lips.

Scarlet Empress Playhouse Show

Marlene Dietrich Interprets Glamorous Character of Catherine the Great

"The Scarlet Empress," which more than justifies its advance heralding as Marlene Dietrich's greatest starring opportunity and Director Josef von Sternberg's most pretentious production, opened at the Playhouse Theatre to-day.

Based on a diary by the glamorous Catherine the Great of Russia, who ruled her country with an iron hand and yet was ruled herself by romantic impulses, "The Scarlet Empress" must be rated a spectacle by any standards of judgment. It goes beyond luxuriance of production and artistic beauty, however, in that it is one of the most gripping dramatic stories yet to reach the screen.

Miss Dietrich, as Catherine, offers a characterization, which compels attention throughout the picture. John Lodge, a comparative newcomer seeking leading men, scores decisively in the role of Count Alexei. Sam Jaffe as the idiotic Grand Duke Peter and Louise Dresser as Empress Elizabeth, likewise make the most of colorful roles.

More than forty supporting players portray the various personalities of the Imperial Russian Court of 1762.

Produced by Paramount, "The Scarlet Empress," is a final analysis of the year's productions, inevitably must obtain recognition at the top of the preferred list.

Also being shown on second feature are Rochelle Hudson and Chester Morris in "I've Been Around."

BY-ELECTION TEST FOR BILL

British Commons Vote in Liverpool Will Show Opinions on India

Associated Press

London, Jan. 28.—The February by-election at Liverpool, regarded as a test of the strength of the government's India bill, added to the political tension to-day as Parliament reconvened.

Randolph Churchill, twenty-three-year-old son of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, and an Independent Conservative who is fighting for the Liverpool seat, is using as his battle cry "No surrender to India."

Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Lord President of the Council and Conservative party leader, has thrown his support to Jeremy Pilcher, National Conservative candidate, since the party is pledged to support the government's bill.

Meanwhile the Labor and Liberal candidates were hopeful the split in Conservative ranks would turn victory in their direction.

The bill providing for modified home rule in India is chief among many measures for the adoption of which the government intends to press relentlessly.

Other problems slated for attention include aid for agriculture and agricultural marketing, slum clearance, unemployment relief and aid for industry and trade.

JAPANESE READY FOR NAVAL RACE

Tokio, Jan. 28.—The Japanese people, Admiral Mineo Osumi, Minister of the Navy, asserted in parliament to-day, must be prepared to see through any naval race which may come eventually, "even if we are reduced to eating rice gruel."

While declining to give any assurance there would be no naval race, Admiral Osumi said the Japanese government "is doing its best to avoid such competition."

He mentioned no nation, but naval circles frankly assume the United States will be Japan's chief naval competitor.

Jamie Dunn became a South Sea Island monarch when his father made him a gift of a three-acre island near Tahiti, which the elder Dunn took in payment of some stocks he purchased recently.

COLUMBIA HAS WARNER COMEDY

Even Studio "Grips" Forced to Laugh at Charlie Ruggle's Gags

Charles Ruggles is one of the most tireless, cheerful and conscientious workers in all Hollywood. And he's a scream.

At the Warner film Studios, while Ruggles was making "Friends of Mr. Sweeney," now showing at the Columbia Theatre, everybody on the set gave the same answer, from leading lady to "grips."

For a fellow of such comic proportion, Ruggles is a remarkably quiet man. When he has finished a scene, he doesn't stay around the set, clowning with all and sundry. He walks off to a corner and usually reads, or else studies dialogue.

"Friends of Mr. Sweeney" is based on the hilarious novel by Homer Davis and dramatized for the screen by Warren Duff and Sidney Sutherland. Ann Dvorak has the leading feminine role, while others in the cast include Eugene Pallette, Dorothy Burgess, Dorothy Tree and Robert Barrat. Edward Ludwig directed.

Also being shown on the same programme is "She Had to Say Yes," starring Loretta Young.

DOMINION THEATRE

What would you do if you were a widow who had fallen desperately in love for the first time in your life and were planning on an early marriage to the man of your heart, only to find that your sixteen-year-old daughter, ignorant of the true situation, had fallen no less desperately in love with the same man?

This is the situation which confronts Claudette Colbert in "Imitation of Life," the Universal John M. Stahl production, now the feature picture at the Dominion Theatre, with Miss Colbert in the starring role and Rochelle Hudson as her daughter.

Having determined long before that nothing should ever come between herself and her daughter, should the mother nevertheless follow the dictates of her heart and proceed with her marriage? Or should mother-love outweigh any other consideration? Should she even give up the man to her daughter?

This is only one of the several poignant problems presented in "Imitation of Life," adapted from the novel by Fannie Hurst. In addition to Miss Hudson the cast supporting Miss Colbert includes Warren William, in the leading male role, Baby Jane, three-year-old starlet, Ned Sparks, Louise Beavers, Alan Hale and Henry Armetta.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Heralded as a challenge to all the star's previous successes, and as one of the big events of the motion picture year in the screen version of Sir James Barrie's hauntingly-beautiful romance, "The Little Minister," which serves Katharine Hepburn as her new vehicle, and now being shown at the Capitol Theatre.

For this picture RKO-Radio re-created the quaint charm of Thrums in Scotland, and around it director Richard Wallace has staged a romance with all the qualities of whimsical delicacy which Barrie expressed.

Katharine Hepburn re-creates in her inimitable mood the character of Babbie made famous on the stage by Maude Adams. Amid the wild and untamed Scottish moors the elfish Babbie leads her persecutors and her love a merry chase.

Richard Wallace, who directed the making of the Barrie classic, has made his romance around the Auld Licht Kirk one of strange and haunting charm. John Beal, from the Broadway stage, is said to play the role of the "Little Minister" with a splendid touch. That favorite trouper, Alan Hale, is also featured as the forthright town drunkard, Rob Dow. Other colorful roles are played by Beryl Mercer, Donald Crisp, Lumsden Hare, Mary Gordon, Andy Clyde, Dorothy Stickney, Harry Beresford and Barlowe Borland.

SYMPHONY WILL BE POPULAR

Tschaikowsky's Fourth Symphony to Be Given Here By Seattle Orchestra

A popular symphony has been chosen by the Seattle Symphony Orchestra for performance here next Friday evening. This is Tchaikowsky's Fourth Symphony, which is described in Grove Dictionary as follows:

"Tchaikowsky's music with its strange combination of the sublime and the platitudinous will always touch the average hearer, to whom music is—and ever will be—more a matter of feeling than thought. The Fourth Symphony is remarkable for its brighter qualities and gleams of unwonted humor."

Young People's Societies

CHINESE PRESBYTERIAN Y.P.S.

The Chinese Presbyterian Y.P.S. held its regular meeting on Friday. The president, Miss Ruth Leung, opened the meeting by singing a hymn. The scripture reading was chosen from Mark. A prayer was delivered by Miss Grace Lee and the worship period closed with a hymn.

Following the worship period, Rev. Leung Mei Fong gave a talk on the "good sportsmanship of the physical training master, Mr. Ho Gee, who gave an interesting and emphatic talk on "The Advantage of Athletics to the Young People."

The minutes were read by the secretary, Mr. Thomas Wong, and approved. The following were elected for the debating committee: Miss Victoria Hipp, Miss Annie Lee, Misses Rebecca and Ruth Leung, Mr. Edward Chan and Mr. Harvey Lowe.

The meeting adjourned by singing a hymn and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer.

After the meeting, many enjoyable and exciting games were played. Then Mr. Ho Gee and Rev. Leung supplied refreshments, which were served by Misses Ruth and Rebecca Leung and Mr. Ho Gee.

The total attendance was thirty-two members, including two new members, Miss Daisy Fung and Miss Violet Eng.

WILL DEVELOP KOOTENAY LAND

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—Paving the way for development of 7,500 acres of farm lands near Creston on the Kootenay River, Mr. Justice F. G. T. Lucas in Supreme Court to-day approved an arrangement which had been entered into between G. L. Slater, trustee in bankruptcy of the Kootenay Valley Power and Development Co. Ltd. and its creditors.

The property had been acquired from a British company, the Alberta and British Columbia Exploration Co. Ltd., but its development had been halted following the purchaser's bankruptcy on May 4, 1931, and as a result of a flood in 1932 which prevented farmers, who had taken up holdings, carrying out their agreements.

Arrangements have now been completed for financing the reclamation of the area.

The original owner, the British company, had consented to reduce its claim from $897,000 to $60,000, for which it will hold a second mortgage.

The first charge will be the cost of the reclamation work, to be undertaken by Christensen Brothers, and Mr. Salter, and the trustee's expenses. Mr. Salter expects to contribute $6,000.

TO CARE FOR PREFERRED CLAIMS

A third mortgage will be executed to take care of two preferred claims, one being of the Canadian Bank of Commerce for $6,603, and of unsecured creditors amounting to $26,-000. The third mortgage will secure $46,600.

Unsecured claims totaled $72,260; but the trustee hopes to reduce this by having certain claims disallowed, to $36,000.

It is hoped eventually to pay the unsecured creditors fifty cents on the dollar.

Some fourteen farmers, who gave up their holdings when the dikes went out in 1932, have agreed to go back on the land, after it has been reclaimed. Their payments, together with funds received from the sale of other lots, will be used to pay off the various claims, which have been passed by the court, and the balance to establish a fund to take care of the dikes in the future.

The trustee obtained permission from the International Joint Commission to go ahead with his scheme for permanent works in and adjacent to the Kootenay River, and to Boundary Creek.

TWO B.C. CASES GO TO LONDON

Two cases will be carried from British Columbia courts to the Privy Council in London as a result of decisions given by the Court of Appeal here to-day. The court, after hearing arguments, granted leave to take to London both the Hugh Magee Estate distribution litigation of Vancouver and the case of the B.C. Land and Investment Co. of Victoria against the Montreal Trust Co.

In the B.C. Land case, the court early this month dismissed the appeal of the Montreal Trust Co. from a Supreme Court judgment of Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald ordering the trust company to pay $1,100 to the B.C. Land. The Montreal Trust was sued on the ground that it, impliedly, indemnified a mortgage held by the B.C. Land, and it defended on the ground that it was a trustee and not a principal in the transaction.

The argument on to-day's application for leave to go to the Privy Council centred around the question of whether the amount involved came up to the $500 required by the rules. H. A. Bourne, counsel for the B.C. Land, argued that the amount was not large enough and that the collateral effects of the judgment should not be taken into consideration in considering the total at stake.

J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., argued for the right of the Montreal Trust Co. to go higher, quoting cases to support his contention that a capital amount as well as interest was involved and the total came well over the required amount for appeal. In this he was supported by Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald, who declared the matter in dispute was really $12,000 at least, and upwards of around $20,000 if the total loss were considered.

Chief Justice Macdonald was for refusing the leave to appeal, but Mr. Justice McQuarrie, who was the third hearing the application, supported Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald to constitute the court majority for the appeal.

MAGEE ESTATE

In the Magee case it was recalled that Hugh Magee died in 1909, leaving an estate valued at $60,000 which has now increased to nearly $190,000. His will gave Sir Charles H. Tupper, sole executor, unlimited discretion in making provision for the widow and nine children. During the lifetime of the widow one half of the income from the estate was set aside out of which the executor made special provisions for her.

The widow died in 1927 and according to the will the executors, now E. H. Tupper and Alfred Bull, K. C., could divide the capital among the children living at date of division as they thought fit.

One son, Hugh C., applied through his agent, to Mr. Justice Fisher in Supreme Court for such distribution. The motion was granted but the Appeal Court reversed and to-day G. E. McCrossan, K.C., applied for leave to appeal direct to the highest judicial body. Mr. Bull to-day appeared for the executors and Mr. Farris for their heirs.

In granting the request the court decided the appellant should furnish securities for costs of $200.

NICOLA, WAYSIDE STOCK APPEALS

When the court recessed for luncheon, it was again on the appeal of the Wayside and Nicola mining interests to have blocked by way of an injunction the orders of Attorney-General Sloan appointing commissioners under the Securities Fraud Prevention Act to inquire into the stock operations of the two companies.

A. B. Macdonald, K.C., of Vancouver, counsel for J. A. Russell, appointed commissioner by the government in the Nicola case, resumed the argument to-day. Against him as counsel for Nicola financial interests is W. C. Craig, K.C. In the Wayside case, bracketed with the Nicola, J. W. deB. Farris, K.C., is appearing for the Vancouver Stock and Bond Co., and the George St. John interests who sought the injunction. George C. McCrossan, K.C., is appearing for G. L. Fraser, appointed investigating commissioner by the attorney-general.

TRUCK STRIKE IN NEW YORK

Associated Press

New York, Jan. 28.—About 20,000 truckmen plying the waterfront went on strike to-day, according to an estimate by Michael J. Cashal, vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America.

Cashal intimated the strike, planned to be a one-day affair, might spread and continue beyond its scheduled extent. Joseph P. Ryan, president of the longshoremen's organization, said all his men were working and that no strike had been authorized.

Union longshoremen, however, were refusing to handle freight transported by non-union truckmen.

WIDE DETOUR TO GET HERE

Major H. S. Ralph Used Taxi and Sleigh to Escape Slide Blockade Zone

Major H. Spencer Ralph, former deputy commissioner of the Reparations Commission, who has been in Ottawa giving evidence on the Gypsum Queen case, is the first Victorian to get through the train blockade in the Fraser River canyon.

He started Victoria this morning via Seattle after making a detour from Kamloops, southward through the States, a journey packed with thrills and nerve-wracking experiences.

Major Ralph arrived in Kamloops over the Canadian National Railways from the east on Wednesday morning last, about 8 o'clock, when the passengers learned of the mountain blockade on the C.N.R. and C.P.R. main lines east and west of Lytton, at Boston Bar and at North Bend, with prospect of serious delay to rail traffic and isolation from their destinations on the Coast.

All passengers, numbering about eighty-five, were taken off the C.N.R. train and comfortably housed in the Leland and Plaza hotels at Kamloops. Two C.P.R. trains were also stalled at Kamloops. The total number of travelers held up by the slides was about 300.

Anxious to get to the Coast without delay, Major Ralph met Gus Ollis, Grant Reid and R. L. Reid, who had been lost in the north and had reached Jasper Park by dog team after suffering privations, subsequently reaching Kamloops by rail, and the quartette conferred together and decided to make a dash for the Coast by any means of locomotion possible. They endeavored to charter a plane to fly out, but found that it would cost $500 and they discarded the idea. After trying to arrange bus transportation and failing, they succeeded in persuading Vic. Wilkinson to come to drive them by taxi via the Okanagan valley and Washington State to Seattle. The state of the roads and heavy snowdrifts made the trip an extremely hazardous one, but they set out. This was on Friday night, at about 8 o'clock, after being marooned for three days.

DASH THROUGH DRIFTS

They made the trip in the taxi by way of Armstrong, Vernon, Osoyoos, and across the border through Oroville, Wash., where they boarded a mixed freight and passenger train for Wenatchee, leaving the apple city over the main line of the Great Northern Railway and arriving at Seattle about midnight on Saturday.

The taxi trip through the Okanagan to Osoyoos was one experience that Major Ralph and his companions will remember for a long time. Between Armstrong and Vernon, the snowdrifts were so deep that they were forced to hire a horse-drawn sleigh from a farmer, who hauled the taxi through the drifts for several miles.

Major Ralph paid tribute to the courtesy and resourcefulness of T. W. McDonough, acting C.N.R. travelling passenger agent, and Alan Whyte, divisional traffic agent, who looked after every need of the marooned travelers at Kamloops.

Funeral Tuesday Of James D'Arcy

James D'Arcy, 816 King's Road, passed away Saturday evening in St. Joseph's Hospital, aged twenty-eight years. He was born in Dublin, Ireland, and is survived by his parents, three sisters, Miss Madeline D'Arcy, at home, Mrs. H. Mercer and Mrs. R. Simpson, both of Victoria, and one brother, Christopher, of Seattle.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning from McCall Brothers' Funeral Home, and proceed to St. Andrew's Cathedral, where mass will be celebrated at 9 o'clock. Rev. Father J. A. Gaudette will be the celebrant, after which interment will be in Ross Bay Cemetery.

TELLS INSECT SOCIAL ORDER

The strict social life of insect colonies, the apparent courtesy of greeting among some varieties, and the continual struggles between the various species, one preying upon another, formed the subject of George A. Hardy, speaking before 300 children at the Provincial Museum of Natural History Saturday morning under the auspices of the Canadian Carnegie Institute.

Mr. Hardy described how some varieties of wasps build mud-walled nurseries for their young, and provide them with food in the form of grubs and other insects, previously stung into insensibility.

The speaker told the life story of the mosquito, which lays its eggs on rafts on brackish water, where they develop into floating grubs, and later into swift-flying insects armed with sharp weapons which are turned even against man.

Mr. Hardy painted a picture of the intimate life of an ant colony, with its class distinctions of workers and warriors, and social customs equal and in some cases superior to humanity.

The lecture was illustrated with a series of slides. The speaker was introduced by Francis Kermode, curator of the museum.

Capt. R. E. Thomas Died Sunday

The death occurred yesterday afternoon at St. Joseph's Hospital, after a short illness, of Captain Richard Edward Thomas, 1420 Woodlands Road. Mr. Thomas was born in Newport, Wales, and resided in China for many years before coming to this city twenty-six years ago.

He leaves to mourn his passing his widow, at the family residence, one daughter, Mrs. J. Paterson, Vancouver, and his mother in Brighton, England.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home, after which the remains will be forwarded to Seattle for cremation.

Election Bet of Socks Paid

E. G. Trevelyan Mails Pair to Reeve Crouch But No Notes "They Are a Little Dilapidated."

Reeve Reeve Crouch opens his mail to-morrow morning he will "cash in" on a bet that he made during the Saanich election campaign that he would be elected. E. G. Trevelyan, a retired worker, who bet the reeve a pair of socks he would not be elected, at the Ward Seven meeting, said to-day he put the package in the mail this morning. "But I won't vouch for the condition of the socks," he added.

The following letter accompanied the package.

"Reeve Crouch, Sir:

"Being a man of my word I am enclosing the socks I promised to give if you were elected. They are a little dilapidated, as I told you, but they are the best I had. Cheerio until next time.

"Your regretfully,

"E. G. TREVELYAN."

Cheque Counts Are Admitted

Charles Houston Sentenced to Six Months' Imprisonment; Asks Leniency

On two charges of obtaining money by false pretenses by cashing worthless cheques, Charles Houston was sentenced to six months' imprisonment on each, to run concurrently, when he pleaded guilty in the City Police Court this morning.

The cheques were cashed at David Spencer Limited and the Hudson's Bay Company. The accused man was under conviction on a similar charge in Vancouver, when he appeared this morning. He was given three months' imprisonment by Magistrate Woods in the mainland court and his Victoria terms will commence at the expiration of this period.

Eleven previous convictions, involving forgery, fraud and theft were read against him.

Houston entered a plea for leniency. He had come out of Oakalla on October 15 last. He had suffered since the war and after coming out of prison he started taking drugs again on October 17, he said. Last Monday he said he reported to Vancouver prosecutors and the magistrate had been lenient after hearing his case and hearing that he had a job in Atlin which would be ready for him by about May 1, to which he hoped to go to cure himself.

After each had taken his oath and the municipal seal had been handed to the reeve for the year, the judge said:

"I see you are still a little old-fashioned in Oak Bay—you are still paying your debts. I hope you will keep it up."

Mr. Blandy said that Arthur Mallett was not able to be present to be sworn in as a police commissioner of Oak Bay. He said the school trustees had been sworn in earlier in order to take part in a special meeting.

Davies, provincial grand master of the Loyal Orange Association, and wreaths from the Victoria, Vancouver and Prince Rupert lodges were among the many beautiful floral tributes received, which were later placed on the Cenotaph.

The remains were forwarded to Seattle for cremation. The pallbearers were: W. Ashworth, J. P. Davies, P. B. Rolland, B. Holland, S. G. Gurney and R. P. Creech.

FLUME BREAK NEARLY FIXED

B.C.E.R. Officials Expect Jordan River Damage to Be Repaired By Wednesday

Repair work at the Jordan River flume was reported to be proceeding well by A. T. Goward, vice-president of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, to-day.

"Things are going fine on the second break in the flume," Mr. Goward stated. "There is very little doubt now that we will be able to complete work by Wednesday, unless something unforeseen develops."

The second break in the flume was reported much worse than the first, which was repaired last Wednesday.

Although several hundred cases were cleared up yesterday by gangs working overtime, the condition of Victoria's telephone system was far from good to-day, it was stated at the B.C. Telephone offices. The repair gangs are constantly faced by innumerable breaks in cables which cannot be found until the break nearest the main line is repaired.

Up-island lines were reported in poor condition.

BIG HAUL IN STORE ENTRY

Thieves who broke into the premises of H. Lovick, wholesale magazine distributor, at 708 Humboldt Street, made a large haul in cash and merchandise, yesterday evening, according to a police report.

A total of $22.10 was taken in cash and five companies, two baseballs, ten watches, eight flashlights and five hand lanterns.

SLOT MACHINE CASE PROCEEDS

Distributor Tells Court He Was Informed Marble Games Had Police Sanction

Because he had been given to understand police had approved the machines, he had made no attempt to cease their operations and had been unaware that proprietors were not allowing the game to be played as they were instructed it should be, James Cunningham told the City Police Court this morning in the prosecution of operators of slot and marble machines as owners of gaming houses.

The operators, through their counsel, Frank Higgins, K.C., pleaded guilty. In the case of the two firms where slot machines were seized, the operators were fined $25 each, and those who operated the marble machines were fined $15 each. Confiscation of the latter machines is being considered by the court.

Mr. Cunningham, joint manager of the Biber Manufacturing Company, stated he had been told by his adviser, Mr. Higgins, that the police had sanctioned the games and advised they were a game of skill and not of chance.

"Who gave you to understand the machines had been approved?" asked C. L. Harrison in cross-examination.

"My lawyer, Mr Higgins," was the reply.

NOT APPROVED

"And you have, of course, discovered that was not the case," said Mr. Harrison.

The evidence in all four cases was that two Provincial Police officers played the machines, receiving cash or merchandise when they obtained a specified total.

Mr. Cunningham testified cash was supposed to be given in small envelopes which clearly defined it to be used to play black into the machines as free games. Persons who did not do this broke faith with the firm which operated the machines, he said.

In one case, where the policemen were not given the money in envelopes, Mr. Higgins commented "this is a clear case of carelessness on the part of one of the employees."

Mr. Cunningham was cross-examined regarding the manufacture of the machines here. He said he had invested $5,000 in the production of the machines, whose manufacture gave steady employment to between twelve and fifteen men.

He explained the distributors divided the proceeds of the games on a fifty-fifty basis with the operators. The court was told that in one case, where the machine was emptied twice a week, $47.31 was taken from it when it was opened in police headquarters. The prosecution cited this as an instance of the profit made by the machines.

MANY MOURN LATE PIONEER

Many old-timers of Vancouver Island, together with a large delegation from Britannia Lodge, A.F. and A.M., of which lodge he had been a valued member, attended the funeral on Saturday afternoon of Robert Grant, a pioneer of Cumberland and former member of the Legislature for that district.

The impressive services were conducted by Canon F. A. P. Chadwick, a close personal friend of the deceased. At the graveside at Ross Bay Cemetery, the members of Britannia Lodge, No. 72, conducted the funeral rites of the order, with Canon Chadwick leading in that ceremony.

During the services the hymns, "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Abide With Me," were sung. Mrs. S. M. Morton sang as a solo "No Night There."

The pallbearers, all members of Britannia Lodge, were: Wor. Brother E. T. Scruggs, Wor. Brother S. Hewett, Wor. Brother Fred Butterfield, Wor. Brother A. McGregor, Wor. Brother A. McDowell and Wor. Brother F. Hancock.

There was a profusion of floral tributes from friends and organizations with which the deceased had been identified.

Steinway Piano

Musically educated people everywhere acknowledge the unsurpassed quality of the Steinway Piano and because it is without a peer in this respect many assume that its cost is beyond their means.

As a matter of fact it is as easy to own Steinway as any other Piano, but in its possession there is a satisfaction that no other instrument can equal.

Marguerite Bitter will be heard in recital at the Empress Hotel on February 11. Steinway Pianos are always on display at Fletcher Bros.

Letter Post Diverted Through States as Result of Slides on Mainland

Mails will be coming through regularly by Wednesday, it was stated to-day by Postmaster George H. Gardiner.

Montreal and Toronto letter mail, dated January 21, reached the city via Seattle on Saturday, and that dated January 22 came in yesterday, also through Seattle.

The last direct eastern mails received here were dated January 16.

The mails dated January 17, 18 and 19 from Montreal and Toronto, the postmaster said, were still missing, held up somewhere east of the blockade zone. Another big load of mail was delivered here to-day via Seattle.

The delayed mails are being sent through via Calgary, Medicine Hat, and Tabk and over the Great Northern Railway from Spokane to Seattle, and thence by regular boat to Victoria.

Up-island mails are expected to be operating regularly by to-morrow.

DOG LICENSES ARE NOW DUE

Pound-keeper to Start Rounds at Beginning of Next Month

Dog owners of the city were warned to-day by the city dog license collector to have their animals provided with 1935 tags by next Thursday.

The end of the month marks the expiration of the thirty days grace given dog owners to secure their licenses. Starting at the beginning of February, Norman Lord, license collector, and the city pound keeper will open a city wide canvas to make sure all animals are licensed. Any dog without a 1935 tag may be taken into pound. In order to avoid any inconvenience, owners who have paid their licenses are urged to put the metal discs on their animals since dogs, even if licensed, may be collected if they do not bear the metal tags.

All male dogs are subject to a license fee of $5. For females the city charges $5, and for kennels $10.

Former Trounce Americans and Win City Title

Lynn Patrick Scores Goal in 4 to 2 Victory; Black Hawks Whip St. Louis

DETROIT-BOSTON IN 2-2 DEADLOCK

New York, Jan. 28.—The New York Rangers clinched the season's city title and tied Detroit for third place in the National Hockey League's American Division by walloping the Americans 4 to 2 yesterday evening.

The victory was the third for the Rangers against one defeat and a tie in five games of the inter-city clash. A crowd of 14,709 cash customers saw the last game which had few dull moments.

The deciding goal, however, was scored on a dead slow play early in the third period when Bill Cook got off a remarkable wing shot while he was sandwiched between McVeigh and Dutton.

SUMMARY

First period—No score. Penalties: Dutton, Brydge, Seibert.

Second period—1, Americans, Klein (Hines), 0.35; 2, Rangers, Keeling (Mason, Connolly), 9.40. Penalty: Murray.

Two goals by Dit Clapper gave the Boston club the tie, the Bruin forward counting in the first period on a pass from Barry and then scoring again in the third to even up the count after the Wings had jumped into the lead. Aurie scored for Detroit shortly after Clapper had tallied his first goal, and in the second period Weiland beat the veteran Thompson to give the Detroit club the lead, which Clapper's second goal wiped out.

Third period—4, Boston, Clapper (Barry and Kaminsky), 2.20. Penalties: None.

Overtime period—No score. No penalties.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—After piling up a four-goal lead over the surprising St. Louis Eagles, the Chicago Black Hawks just managed to stave off a hair-raising rally and escape with a 5 to 3 National Hockey League victory yesterday evening before 9,000 spectators at the Stadium.

Taking advantage of loose defence play, the Hawks had a 5 to 1 lead going into the last half of the final period. The Eagles, forgetting all about defence tactics, turned loose a series of five-man rushes that produced two goals in one minute, and were still rushing at the finish.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Chicago, Trudell (Coan), 11.40; 2, Chicago, Wiebe (Locking), 17.10. Penalties: Coulter.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

AN INSIGHT into the hockey situation at Madison Square Garden as far as the New York Rangers are concerned is given in a recent article in The New York Times, under the pen of John Kieran, well-known Gotham sports scribe. The main information in the item is the fact that all hockey news about the Rangers now is given out by Col. John S. Hammond, who has taken over the job usually handled by Lester Patrick. The article follows:

• • •

It used to be that a man seeking information on ice hockey and the Rangers could find the game by going to Madison Square Garden, third floor. Turn left, open a door and there would be M'sieu Lestaire Patrick, who would explain everything on ice and perhaps top it off by reciting a few verses of some old Habitant rhyme.

But a trip there yesterday disclosed the fact that M'sieu Lestaire moved across the hall some time ago. At the old stand the man in possession was none other than the streamlined, silver-thatched Colonel John S. Hammond, who smiled, excused the intrusion and said it was all right and he was ready to give any information on hockey that he had for what it was worth.

Well, it was odd to find the Rangers resting on the bottom rung of the American division ladder and possibly it was just as well that M'sieu Lestaire had moved. He might not care to discuss such a painful topic.

• • •

"Oh, no," said Colonel John, who talks fluently but softly. "He would not mind it at all. Lester's doing a grand job this season. The Rangers have been coming along well in recent games. You see, some of our players are getting a little old and it takes time for them to warm up in the campaign. Everything will be all right"—

But there were only four teams in their group and they were running fourth. If that was all right with him and with M'sieu Lestaire, possibly an outsider had no cause for worry or complaint and—

"Consider the competition in our group," said Colonel John, gently.

• • •

What did he mean by asking consideration for the competition in the American division of the hockey league.

"Why, Boston, Chicago and Detroit in our group are among the strongest teams in the league," explained Colonel John, genially. "Remember what the Hawks did last year? Won the Stanley Cup. And Detroit was right in there. Boston always has been good.

What made the Chicago Black Hawks flap along so briskly on ice? It was predicted that the loss of their great goalie and their manager and the trading of some of their star players would leave them a wreck. How they were—

"Howie Morenz," said Colonel John. "He's the answer. Everybody thought he had slowed up and he seemed to be skating faster than ever. He's a whole team in himself."

• • •

It must have been like one of the old Ranger-Boston games when Eddie Shore and Lionel Hitchman were tangling with Ivan the Terrible Johnson and Taffy Abel. And speaking of Taffy, he recently walked away from the ice in Chicago, which was another reason for wondering how the Black Hawks could lose so many of last year's winning squad and still keep skipping along so blithely from ice cake to ice cake.

"Oh, Taffy," said Colonel John, with a chuckle. "He held out, you know, and then showed up weighing a long ton, more or less. So they put him on a diet—mostly vegetables—and I guess Taffy couldn't stand the strain. He flinched at the parsnips and turned up his nose at the spinach and when they gave him lettuce he said he couldn't eat it except with a steak and potato dressing. I guess Taffy thought he was going to die of starvation, so he walked out while he still had his strength."

• • •

The invigorating ingredient in the Ranger attack this winter seemed to be of the variety generally spread on flypaper, except that it gummed up more easily.

"Excuse me," said Colonel John, politely; "just look at our point total. If we were in the other division"—

Quite so. It was Doule Bush, when he was managing the Cincinnati baseball club, who said that his team would be right up there—if it were in the Three-Eye League. But that didn't lend any pretzels in Cincinnati.

"What does that mean?" queried Colonel John, gently.

It didn't mean anything except that the Rangers would have to qualify where they were playing or they wouldn't qualify at all. And they were still running fourth where only three teams could edge into the play-off.

"Yes, but we're winding up fast," said Colonel John. "Our youngsters will pick us into the play-offs. And our veterans, too. They're great players yet, and they'll be in their best, as usual, in the play-offs."

DOG FANCIERS HOLD SESSION

Important Matters Discussed With New Officers of Canadian Kennel Club

Victoria and Island members of the Canadian Kennel Club gathered at the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday evening to meet two newly-elected officers of the national organization, W. H. Fym, second vice-president, and J. A. H. Irving, director for British Columbia. J. G. MacFarlane occupied the chair. Owing to road conditions up-island it was impossible for a large number of the members to attend.

The object of the gathering was to obtain the views of the members before Fym and Irving leave for Toronto to attend the annual directors' meeting and the annual general meeting of the Canadian Kennel Club next month.

The chief item on the agenda was the discussion of the proposed amendments to the C.K.C. show rules and constitution, many of which are of vital importance to both breeders and exhibitors. After each amendment had been freely discussed, Fym and Irving gave explanations of the proposals and their own views.

A general discussion took place on many matters affecting the individual clubs, exhibitors and breeders. The most vital matter talked over was the selling of impounded dogs, not claimed by their rightful owners. It was felt that the present system of disposing of dogs was detrimental to the legitimate breeders, as the type of dog usually found in the pound was the "tramp" and the one that usually causes so much trouble by raiding chicken pens and garbage cans. The opinion of the meeting was that such dogs are a menace and a nuisance and should be disposed of.

Before the close of the meeting, Irving announced the Vancouver Island advisory board had been appointed as follows: J. G. MacFarlane, chairman; A. H. Dodge, C. W. Lonsdale, Miss M. Robertson and Miss L. Hickling.

Vancouver Whips Portland Squad

Portland, Ore., Jan. 28.—Portland's Penguin amateur ice hockeyists took another setback on the ice here yesterday evening when the Waterfront team of Vancouver, B.C., defeated them, 5 to 2.

Bill Burnett, Vancouver defence star, was the big gun of the game. He scored three of his team's goals.

Several fist fights and a number of heated verbal arguments marked the games progress.

Los Angeles, Jan. 28.—Led by hard hitting Cecil Smith, the Texas Rough Riders yesterday won a 13 to 11 polo victory over the Pacific Coast All-Stars, composed of English-born players.

Smith, one of the three nine-goal players in the world, scored seven goals for the Texans, five of them penalty shots. His other goals came from hard riding and masterful hitting while going at full speed.

Vancouver Groups Veto Rugby Tour

Victoria's Motion in Favor of Sending Team to California Voted Down at Mainland Meeting; Invite Southerners Here in Easter

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—British Columbia will not send a touring side of English rugby players to California, it was definitely decided at a meeting of the B.C. Rugby Union Saturday.

The following wire was sent notifying California of the decision, made after weeks of correspondence between British Columbia and California, and controversy between subsidiary unions of the British Columbia body.

"At a meeting of our union Saturday it was found with greatest regret impossible to send a team to California as suggested. No games played here for six weeks and no opportunity to play before a team would leave, owing to weather conditions. Consequently selectors unable to pick representative team. Would you consider bringing team up here this Easter?"

VICTORIA AGAINST CANCELLATION

The decision was reached only after much discussion, including the views of each of the four unions, under the B.C. Union, and met with the greatest disproval from Victoria's delegation, which immediately presented a counter proposal that Victoria be given permission to make the trip. They were persuaded to withdraw their motion, however, before it was put to the question. A proposal, mentioned earlier in the meeting by T. G. Stewart, president of the North Shore All-Blacks that the North Shore Union be permitted to send a fifteen should a representative British Columbia side not be sent, was not brought up again.

The motion proposed by Russell Ker, vice-president of the Victoria Rugby Union, that a British Columbia side be sent to California was defeated by a vote of six to five.

VOTING

The voting went as follows: For, H. J. Ketchen, Victoria; R. Ker, Victoria; Bob McInnes, Victoria, and two Capitol City proxies; against, Don Doings and T. G. Stewart, North Shore; Ted Medley, Varsity; Maurice Crehan and J. C. Oswald, Vancouver, and Claire Underhill.

Before commenting on the discussion about California, J. T. Campbell, representative of the C.P.R., who has been in New Zealand for the past five years, commented on the desire of the famous New Zealand All-Blacks to return via Canada from their contemplated trip to England in October this year.

ALL-BLACKS ENTHUSIASTIC

Mr. Campbell stated that the New Zealanders were very enthusiastic about playing in British Columbia on their way home and would consider an invitation from this province first and foremost, regardless of many attractive and enticing offers from other countries not in the British Empire.

An invitation was sent to the side from "down under" on Friday, so in all likelihood, the New Zealand team will appear here in January or February of 1936.

It was also decided to play the remaining two McKechnie Cup games on the following dates:

March 2—Varsity vs. Vancouver at Brockton Point.

March 16—Victoria vs. Vancouver, at Brockton Point.

The Rounsfell Cup game will be played in Victoria at a date to be settled later.

MONARCHS WIN WORLD TITLE

Winnipeg Hockeyists Defeat Switzerland 4 to 2 to Lift Championship

Davos, Switzerland, Jan. 28.—Winnipeg Monarchs yesterday captured the international amateur hockey series for the world championship, defeating Switzerland in the final game 4 to 2. The conquering Canadians swept through with a record of seven victories in the seven games they played.

Second in the series, which began January 19, was Switzerland. While the Monarchs disposed of the Swiss threat to Canada's supremacy in the competition, England defeated Czechoslovakia 2 to 1 and thus finished third in the standing, with Czechoslovakia fourth.

Monarchs' triumph kept for Canada the world champion title won by Saskatoon Quakers in 1934, and by Edmonton Superiors in 1933.

It was a highlight of their victorious touring invasion of Britain and Europe, in which, so far, they are undefeated.

Ching Johnson Has Operation on Leg

New York, Jan. 28.—Ivan (Ching) Johnson, veteran defenceman of the New York Rangers Hockey Club, underwent a leg operation Saturday, and will be lost to the team for a month.

He aggravated a previous injury just below the right knee in a recent game with the Montreal Canadiens. A severe infection developed.

Irate Chinese Supporters Rush Referee Following Defeat By Frank Shandley's Beavers in Deciding Intermediate B Championship Game

In a game which finished in a riot between white and Chinese spectators after the teams had retired from the floor, Frank Shandley's Beavers won the Sunday School and city intermediate B boys' basketball championship from the Chinese Students at the Y.M.C.A. gym Saturday evening.

The Beavers wiped out a fourteen-point deficit, hanging over from the first game, and won 45 to 32 Saturday night to capture the title.

None of the players participated in the melee which broke out at the close of the game. Some of the most ardent Chinese supporters rushed the referee, Chuck Sharpe, when the encounter closed. He was hustled to a room away from the assailants, but several of the officials collected well-directed punches as they ushered him out of harm's way. The rush was the signal for a general outbreak and the Chinese, far outnumbering the white supporters, had a field day. The police were finally called in to restore order.

At one time four separate fights were in progress—two on the gym floor and two upstairs. One white youth was in a dizzy position when several Chinese had him by the throat and were pushing him backward over the balcony railing.

A white woman was seen defending herself from a Chinaman with a chair. A white man was pushed over backwards and pinned to the floor by a Chinaman. Several chairs were broken in the frenzy.

Beavers opened up on the attack from the start and almost wiped out the Chinese margin in the first half, when the score read 20 to 17. Shandley's boys kept up the pressure in the second canto and continued to pile up their lead, blocking the Chinese attacks near centre and refusing to let them through for close in shots.

Chan, with ten points, led the Chinese scorers, while Walker, with nine and Hornsby and Y. Ishida with seven and eight respectively were high for the Beavers.

In a consolation game, Y.M.C.A. whipped the Mets 34 to 16, while the Buyals defaulted to the Paint Supply boys.

Chuck Sharpe refereed and the teams were as follows:

Beavers—Walker (9), Hornsby (7), Kirkbride (4), Hayamiki, Jackson (16), Whitfield (8), Y. Ishida (8), Shimizu and M. Ishida. Total 45.

Chinese Students—G. Lowe (7), Fung (2), F. Joe, Chan (10), Hipp, Sam, W. Lowe (2), J. Lowe and W. Lee. Total 32.

Y.M.C.A.—Roach (12), F. Myers, Morrison, Harknett, J. Myers (17), Finlayson, Elford (3) and Collins (2). Total 34.

Mets—Bury, Clague (1), Gibson, Fuller (8), Pridham (6), Hornsby (2), Carter (4) and Renfree. Total 16.

ROSS-KLICK WILL FIGHT

In Ten-round Title Bout Tonight at Miami; Max Baer Will Appear

Miami, Fla., Jan. 28.—Finishing touches to weeks of strenuous training were applied yesterday by champion Barney Ross and challenger Frankie Klick, who square off here to-night in a ten-round boxing extravaganza in which Ross's synthetic junior welterweight title will be at stake.

Pre-scrap betting odds favor the Chicago fighter, who also holds the world lightweight crown, although Klick, the hard-punching California boxer, has amassed a considerable following from fans who have watched his improving form.

Both principals were to weigh in this afternoon and then seek seclusion until time for them to enter the ring. Leo Shea will referee.

BAER ON CARD

Sharing the spotlight on the card, which is the first and only major fight programme arranged here this winter, will be a four-round exhibition featuring Maxie Baer, world's heavyweight champion, and Jimmy Maloney, an old-time pugilist now a traffic cop on the Miami police force.

Semi-final honors go to Joe Knight, Cairo, Ga., southpaw, and Tony Shucco, Boston light heavy, who will box each other over ten rounds with the winner promised a shot at champion Bob Olin.

LOCALS TAKE LONE TITLE

Florence Oates and Cam Logan Victors in Washington State Badminton

Seattle, Jan. 28. — Victoria's visiting shuttle players started for home to-day, taking with them one of the six major titles at the second annual Washington State badminton tourney which ended here yesterday evening.

Victoria representatives won their way into the semi-finals of four events and into the quarters of another, but the smooth-stroking Sound City players proved too much, with the exception of the mixed doubles captured by Miss Florence Oates and C. Logan, Victoria pair, who turned back Mrs. Bert Barkhuff and Hamilton Law, Seattle, 18-9, 18-4.

Law captured the men's singles event, defeating his fellow townsman, Keith Weston, 15-18, 8-15, 15-7, after Weston had eliminated Logan, Victoria, 15-9, 15-7. Law entered the finals with a 15-9, 15-11 victory over Ross Hocking, Victoria.

Mrs. Barkhuff captured the women's singles crown, defeating Miss Doreen Swayne, Victoria, 11-8, 11-1, after Miss Swayne had beaten Irene Church, Seattle, 11-3, 11-2.

Mrs. Kleon and Don Leisure won the handicap mixed doubles, beating Miss Church and Orville Mills, 15-11, 15-7 in an all-Seattle final.

The Victoria pair of Hocking and Corfield bowed to Law and Weston in the men's doubles, 21-7, 15-3 and Florence Oates and Miss Swayne lost, 15-8, 15-8, to Mrs. Barkhuff and Zoe Smith in the women's doubles.

Varsity-Adanacs Win Cage Battles

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—Varsity's basketball team Saturday evening defeated the Vancouver Athletic Club's squad, 29 to 21, and retained their position at the top of the Intercity Basketball League, while the New Westminster Adanacs won from Province, 42 to 32.

Varsity were trailing at half time with the count 16 to 11, but rallied after the rest period. Bardsley with ten points and Pringle with nine were the high men in this game.

Adanacs also showed a last-half rally after being at the bottom of a 13 to 5 count at the end of the first period. Myers was their star player with ten points to his credit.

Montreal, Jan. 28.—Bobby Murray, youthful province of Quebec tennis champion, captured the Canadian covered court tennis title Saturday with a straight-set victory over Laird Watt, Montreal, Canadian Davis Cup team member.

Edmonton Esks In Surprise Victory

Lowly Prairie Club Turns on Seattle, Leaders in Northwest League, For Second Straight Victory 3 to 1; Victory Lifts Eskimos Into Third Place

Somewhere near Prince Rupert a bedraggled band of Seattle Sea Hawks are winging their way homeward to-day after their most disastrous series of the Northwest Hockey League season to date and denied even the small consolation of a quick trip back to the coast for an effort to regain the stride that sent them into the van of the league race.

Saturday night the once-lowly and little respected Edmonton Eskimos humbled the Sea Hawks for the second time, by a 3 to 1 score. It was the Sea Hawks' third defeat in their four prairie games.

ESKS MOVE UP

Louis Holmes, veteran Eskimo winger, provided the scoring punch that lifted the Edmonton club out of the cellar into fourth place, a point in front of Calgary. Holmes scooped up a loose puck late in the first period to open the scoring with a bullet-like drive that Emmett Vesne, Seattle goalie, had no chance to stop.

Sammy McAdam engineered the play that netted Seattle's lone score after six minutes of play in the middle session. McAdam sped over the Edmonton blue line and passed to Harold Tabor, who eased the puck over to Dave Gilhooly for the busty Hawk defenceman to score.

Just past the half-way mark, Holmes took a pass from Art Townsend and whipped the disc home to give the Eskimos the edge. Mory Rimstad, former Edmonton amateur, counted his team's third counter on an unassisted play midway through the final period.

GAME GETS ROUGH

The final session wound up with the same rough house tactics that have been evident all through the coast club's tour of the prairies and has resulted in more major penalties being handed out in the four games than during the rest of the season at the coast.

Ollie Redpath started the penalty parade in the third period and ended with four two-minute rests. Gilhooly, Carse, Tabor and McAdam drew short rests, while Townsend and Cam Proudlock went to the cooler for five minutes each.

With the Hawks when they leave Prince Rupert some time to-morrow will be the Portland Buckaroos, who have been rerouted since they were stalled near Boston Bar a week ago.

Lineups follow:

Edmonton — Rheaume; Townsend, Redpath; Carse; Rimstad, Gagne. Substitutes: Mercer, Holmes, Sutherland, Richard.

First period—1, Edmonton, Holmes, 15.00. Penalties: Shepard, Hammerling, Carse, Proudlock.

Second period—2, Seattle, Gilhooly (Tabor-McAdam), 6.40; 3, Edmonton, Holmes (Townsend), 12.00. Penalties: Proudlock, Townsend, Gagne, McAdam.

Victoria Basketball Champs Beaten 18 to 17 By Smooth-working Gilmore Oil Squad of Seattle; Lake Hill Defeats Colonist in Thrilling Tilt

Presenting a smooth-working offensive and a zone defence, that was plenty tough to break through, the Gilmore Oil basketball squad from Seattle handed the Victoria Blue Ribbons an 18 to 17 setback in an exhibition game at the Victoria High School gym on Saturday evening. The Oilers unveiled some beautiful ball handling and deadly block plays and on the evening's exhibition deserved their victory. The game attracted just about the largest crowd of the season. It was the second defeat suffered by the Ribbons this season, their first coming several weeks ago at the hands of Seattle DeMolay.

The crowd witnessed a bruising battle in the preliminary, when Lake Hill nosed out The Colonist 36 to 33 in a men's senior B tilt. The victory earned the suburbanites the right to meet West Road next Wednesday evening, the winner to battle Hoyle-Brown in a two-game total point series for the city championship. The Colonist won the title last season.

MISS MARTIN

Playing without the services of lanky Red Martin, the Ribbons were under a decided handicap against the clever Oilers. Although Alex. McKeachie, who took Martin's place on the forward line, turned in a good performance, the Ribbons missed Martin's height and if he had been in the line-up it is a pretty safe bet the local champs would have had another victory added to their impressive list.

However, the local club has no alibi for its defeat. In the second half the Ribbons missed enough baskets to win the game by a comfortable margin. In the last ten minutes the two Chapmans, Art and Chuck, Peden and Andrews had shot after shot from fairly close range but were unable to come through, although Art Chapman did pot two beauties in the dying moments to bring the Ribbons within one point of their opponents. With ten seconds to go Chuck Chapman tried a long shot that hit the iron and bounced clear and the Ribbons' last chance for victory passed with the sounding of the gong.

SLOW GAME

Playing with only five men the Oilers took plenty of time on their plays and whenever the Ribbons tried to speed up play, which is always to their advantage, the visitors would call time out. The Gilmore squad used the famous bucket system to good effect all evening, with Grant usually being the man in the bucket. This husky forward turned in a great exhibition, being the pivot man in practically all his club's offensive plays.

Scoring honors for Gilmore went to the veteran Johnny Fuller with eight points. Art Chapman was the highest point getter for the Ribbons with nine.

Gilmore snagged the opening tip-off and after working the ball in close Fuller missed from the side. The Oilers opened the scoring minutes later when Grant batted in a rebound from Lee's attempt. The same player made it 4 to 0 after taking a high pass under the basket from Cross. McKeachie fouled Cross and the latter scored to put the visitors ahead 5 to 0. Fuller sank a similar from the side court and the crowd shouted for the Ribbons to get going.

Eluding his check on the wing, Art Chapman lobbed through one of his famous one-handers for the Ribbons' first points. Fuller got away again and another shot from the side dropped through the iron. Peden broke fast and taking his time scored from well out. Peden took a pass from Art Chapman and scored easily from close in to make the score 9 to 6. Gilmore called time out at the thirteen minute mark.

On resumption Fuller drew applause for a shot over his shoulder that went through. Art Chapman potted one of two free throws. McKeachie followed with a one-hander after a fine bit of individual play and before the half whistle Fuller got a fourth field basket to make the score 13 to 9 in favor of the Oilers.

SECOND HALF

With the opening of the second half Wallis fouled Lee and he scored one of the two throws. Lee brought the house down when he dropped a high one from his own blue line that nearly hit the rafters on its flight to the basket. A free throw by the same player made the score 17 to 9. Two foul shots by Art Chapman and one by Lee were good. Craig whipped a perfect pass to Peden for two points. Right after the same two players had wide open shots and missed and the game ground. Gilmore called time out with five minutes to go.

In a last desperate effort to pull the game out of the fire the Ribbons cut loose and Art Chapman sank a one-hander from the wing. The Oilers called time out for the third time. Only half a minute remained when Art Chapman got another lovely basket to put the locals within a point of their opponents, but the final whistle found Gilmore still clinging to their slim lead.

Tommy Macedo refereed.

CAPTAIN BACK FROM ARCTIC

Master of Ship Which is Frozen in Ice Returns to Civilization By Airplane

Edmonton, Jan. 28.—Jubilant at reaching civilization after eight lonely months in the Arctic, fifty and a half of them in an ice-locked ship, Captain C. H. Roberts of Vancouver and two of his crew of the marooned Hudson's Bay Company motor vessel Margaret A. climbed stiffly out of an airplane here yesterday afternoon after completing a three-day 1,400-mile flight from Letty Harbor, on the wind-swept Arctic coast.

With them they brought word of the sinking of the Canadian-Alaskan motor vessel Hazel off the shore of Banks Island during a terrific storm last summer and the marooning of three others of the same trading company's vessels around Cambridge Bay in September.

Captain Roberts, Chief Engineer W. Weidmann of Vancouver, and H. J. Laroque, Fort Smith, ship's cook, were loud in praise of Pilot Stanley McMillan and Air Engineer Bob Hodgins, who made the hazardous flight across the Arctic desert to the lonely Letty Harbor in their Mechanic Air Service monoplane to rescue them.

MAD REAL BATH

When the plane landed the seamen climbed out and welcomed the little group of spectators, newspapermen and airport officials as if they were long-lost brothers. Then they bundled into an auto and headed for downtown hotels to indulge in the first real bath in ten months.

They told of their long weary, sometimes perilous, trip of rescue after the ice caught their ship September 15. "We played bridge and cards a lot, listened to the radio in the Hudson's Bay Company trading post and usually took a walk every day to keep fit," Captain Roberts said. "I'm very glad to be out."

Although this was the captain's first experience in the Arctic sea, he has been operating boats for years on the Pacific Coast. He has a wife and family in Vancouver. "We were on our way back to our headquarters at Tuktoyaktuk, in the mouth of the Mackenzie River, after taking supplies to posts along the coast as far Coppermine, and we had reached Letty Harbor, about half-way back westward, when the winter tightened and the sea froze in," he related.

The freeze came so sudden they were unable to beach their diesel-powered motor vessel before the ice caught it fast.

A SIGHT FAST DISAPPEARING FROM THE SEAS

It is not often that Victorians have an opportunity to see an old-time bargue in the inner harbor. Such an opportunity is being given them this week. The picturesque old Star of England is now tied up at the Island Tug and Barge Company's wharf, alongside the Riverdale and the Lord Templeton.

CRUISE SHIPS MAKE VISITS

Three Liners at Mediterranean Ports and Fourth Leaves For Hawaii

Athens, Greece, Jan. 28.—On her way around the world, the Canadian liner Empress of Britain, Capt. R. H. Stuart, V.C., arrived here this morning from Naples. She will leave again this evening for Haifa, in Palestine, being due there on Wednesday. At Haifa a large group of the passengers will take a special train for Cairo and the Pyramids.

San Pedro, Jan. 28.—After a day seeing southern California, 400 world cruise passengers on the Cunard-White Star liner Franconia sailed from here yesterday evening and headed out across the Pacific to Honolulu en route to the South Sea Islands. The Franconia is on a "Southern Hemisphere" cruise around the world. She left New York January 12 and came here via Jamaica and the Panama Canal.

Gibraltar, Jan. 28.—Another large group of cruise passengers from North America arrived here this morning by the Canadian liner Empress of Australia, which is on a cruise to the Mediterranean, South Africa and South America. She arrived here from Madeira and will leave this evening at midnight for Barcelona, Spain, to remain there two days.

Naples, Jan. 28.—The great German liner Resolute arrived here this morning on her way around the world. She anchored in the bay while her passengers disembarked to see the sights and take a trip to the famous volcano, which as usual was belching smoke at the back of the city. The liner will proceed to-night to other Mediterranean ports.

BUILD TRESTLE IN QUICK TIME

E. & N. Workmen Complete Fast Job; Train Out of Victoria in Morning

Erection of the 300-foot trestle over the washout on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway at Milligan T.I., near Langford Lake, has been carried out in speedy fashion and the train is expected in Victoria from up-island points late this evening and will leave northbound to-morrow morning. It was announced to-day by James Macfarlane, local Canadian Pacific passenger representative.

It is only a week ago since the heavy rains and melting snow washed out the line for about 300 feet. Gangs of workmen, under the personal supervision of J. A. Kennedy, manager, and W. M. Stokes, chief engineer of the E. and N., were soon on the job and worked from daylight to dark each day.

The Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway has been operating all week to points north of Duncan. Conditions have been bad and the trains have been forced to operate through minor washouts, flooded areas and other drawbacks. On only one occasion was the train late during the entire week.

Glen Cunningham In Easy Victory

Boston, Jan. 28.—Glen Cunningham, the Kansas spokane, who holds the world mile record, gained his second easy victory in as many nights when he defeated Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania by twelve yards in the K. of C. mile, feature of Saturday evening's memorial track programme at the Boston Garden. Cunningham was timed in 4.10 2-5, the third fastest mile ever run indoors in Boston.

Around the Docks

Much interest is being displayed in the three old sailing ships Star of England, Lord Templeton and Riverside, which are now tied up in the inner harbor at the Island Tug and Barge Company's plant. Yesterday a large crowd of Victorians visited them. For many of the younger generation it was their first and probably their last opportunity to see a square-rigged ship.

These three vessels and a fourth, which is yet to arrive, will be used in service from the West Coast of Vancouver Island. They will be dismantled and refitted by a Victoria or Vancouver firm. It is expected tenders for the work will be called shortly.

LOADING LUMBER

The British freighter Hoperange reached the Ogden Point piers this morning at 7.40 o'clock to load 800,000 feet of Vancouver Island lumber for the United Kingdom. She will get away to-morrow morning.

Fresh from annual overhaul in Hongkong, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia will arrive here Saturday morning from the Orient. She will have only a week in her home port of Vancouver, and will sail on her return to the Far East on February 5.

DUE FROM ENGLAND

King Brothers expect the Furness motorship Pacific Pioneer here on Wednesday from the United Kingdom, via the Panama Canal and California ports. She is bringing cargo and passengers for Victoria and from here will proceed to Vancouver.

AT ESQUIMALT

The ss. Princess Adelaide, which is receiving repairs in the government drydock at Esquimalt by Yarrow's Limited, will be floated out and returned to service on Thursday. Work is going ahead on the damaged freighter Benlawers alongside the government wharf and her two steel masts are nearly completed at Yarrows. The Mounted Police boat St. Roch is on the Yarrow cradle being sheathed with iron bark would for her next visit to the Arctic. The Wotan is still there awaiting arrival of engine parts from England.

ON WEST COAST

Dense fog, lying now over the water, has hampered the search for the Japanese freighter Hokuman Maru off the West Coast of Vancouver Island. The ss. Salvage King of Victoria is at Winter Harbor, Quatsino Sound, awaiting favorable weather conditions to carry out the search. The airplane, which has been engaged to search for the derelict ship from the air was unable to fly yesterday. No reports of the Hokuman Maru have been received since she was abandoned a week ago to-day when her crew went aboard the rescue liner President Jackson.

PACIFIC MOVEMENTS

Outward bound to Honolulu, Suva, Auckland and Sydney, the Canadian Australasian liner Niagara will sail from Vancouver Wednesday morning and will pass through Victoria in the late afternoon with passengers, cargo and mails.

The ss. President Jackson of the American Mail Line will be here for two hours next Saturday afternoon on her way to the Orient from Seattle.

Inbound from China and Japan the Blue Funnel liner Ixion is expected here Wednesday morning. Yesterday evening at 8 o'clock she was 645 miles from Victoria.

PLANE LANDS ON CRUISER

British Test-pilot Performs Historic Experiment Off Coast of Italy

London, Jan. 28.—A British test-pilot successfully performed a historic experiment in the Mediterranean early this month, when he landed a British-built autogiro flying machine on an ordinary Italian cruiser and took off again. The important detail of the achievement was that the cruiser was not equipped with a flying deck; the only change made to it for the purpose of the experimental flights was provision, near the stern of the ship, of a temporary platform only thirty-three feet wide.

It foreshadows, therefore, the likelihood of the partial displacement of the aircraft carrier, which is admittedly a vulnerable unit in a fleet, in favor of the carriage by every warship of its own aircraft. Recently, a British naval designer has worked out plans for a destroyer which would carry autogiros.

The experiments were done at the invitation of the Italian government by R. A. C. Bric, who is the most experienced autogiro pilot in Great Britain, in co-operation with the Italian navy, and the final landings and ascents were made about twenty-five miles off the Italian coast, near la Spezia. The airplane used was a standard C.30 two-seater autogiro of the direct control type, of which a batch of nearly one hundred was laid down last year by the Avro Company, who hold a license for the sale and manufacture of these windmill planes. It derives power from a Siddeley Genet Major 140 h.p. engine.

Mr. Bric had landed on the temporary platform and had taken off again with the ship stationary in harbor on the previous day. On Saturday he made successful landings and take-offs with the cruiser steaming at speeds of twelve, eighteen and twenty-four knots. Every landing and every descent was successful, though each time Mr. Bric had to make a considerable swerve as he rose from the platform to avoid the ship's funnel.

Every possible precaution was taken against accident. A flying boat and attendant cruisers, destroyers and motor-boats were stationed in and around the area. One boat carried a doctor and oxygen-breathing apparatus; another had a diver on board. Special ropes were fitted to the undercarriage. These were to be let down by the pilot before landing so that they might be seized by sailors on the ship. Actually, Mr. Bric did not let them down and they were not used.

Local Warships At Canal Zone

Balboa, C.Z., Jan. 28.—On their way to the West Indies to carry out naval manoeuvres, H.M.C.S. Skeena and H.M.C.S. Vancouver arrived here this morning.

They will remain in the Canal Zone until Saturday. After passing through the canal the two destroyers will proceed to Kingston, Jamaica, and then to other ports in the Caribbean Sea and the West Indies.

Several units of the Home Fleet of the British Navy from Portsmouth are now steaming across the Atlantic to join the four destroyers of the Canadian navy. H.M.C.S. Saguenay and H.M.C.S. Champlain of the Halifax station will also engage in the tactics and manoeuvres.

Lady Riaf Winner At Agua Caliente

Agua Caliente, Mexico, Jan. 28.—Lady Riaf, five-year-old Californian-bred mare, ran right back to her winning race of a week ago to win the Gran Premio Nacional, featured race on the fifth programme of Sunday—only races at the Agua Caliente Jockey Club track here yesterday afternoon.

The mare won at six furlongs a week ago, but showed she could come from behind, going a distance of ground yesterday afternoon to win at a mile and seventy yards. Lady Riaf won by a length from Gray Shagger with Try Fair, the early pacemaker, getting the show.

Lady Riaf ran the mile and seventy yards in 1.49 2-5 and paid $8.80 to win, $6 to place and $4 to show.

POLISH LINERS TO BE MODERN

Many Nations Contribute Material For Smart New Ships For Atlantic Service

Trieste, Jan. 28.—Combing the world for the most modern, approved marine equipment, Poland has placed a unique international stamp upon the motorship Pilsudski, first of two new Polish transatlantic liners, which was launched here recently. Built for Poland by the Italian Mondalcone shipyards for American traffic, no less than twelve different countries, including the United States, provided the essential parts and materials that went into the construction.

The United States contributed the gyro-compass, fire-extinguishing apparatus, stock kettles, all the kitchen equipment, copper and aluminum utensils, and all food cutting and slicing machines. Denmark contributed the refrigerating plant, the laundry machinery, the automatic ventilating system, all the electrical winches and the anchors. From Czechoslovakia came most of the hull, particularly shaped iron, as well as crankshafts, thrust and tunnel shafts for the four motors. England is represented by the propellers, steering gear, revolution counters, waste heat boilers and emergency bilge pump, while Scotland provided the distilling plant. Hungary sent steel parts such as the stem, stern and shaft struts. All the motors were built in an Italian machine factory. Steel motor parts were imported from France, and sheets of plating from Austria. From Germany came the davits, main switchboard, connecting rods and the lower bearings of the connecting rods; the main engines, fuel pumps and other special parts were brought from Switzerland. Polish artists executed the interiors.

Despite these international contributions, Poland is able to supply all the raw materials for the construction of her own ships, and in fact sold large shipments of steel to Italy which went into the liners. Poland is not paying a penny for her two ships, since they are being entirely paid for in coal—31,000,000 slotys of it (about $1,700,000)—on a strictly barter basis.

The Pilsudski, named after Marshal Josef Pilsudski, was ordered by Poland for the government - controlled Gdynia-American Line and will be entered into service this summer for the New York, Halifax and Gdynia run. Her sister ship, the Batory, will be launched in the spring and be put into service early next year. Each liner is 514 feet long with a seventy-foot beam and a depth of twenty-five feet. It has a displacement of 15,000 tons and a speed of twenty knots.

JAY GOULD PASSES AWAY

Grandson of Railway Builder Dies at Margaretville, N.Y.

Associated Press

Margaretville, N.Y., Jan. 28—The death of Jay Gould, forty-five, grandson of the railroad builder and a tinkling court tennis player, was mourned to-day.

He succumbed in a hospital late Saturday evening to a hemorrhage, which resulted from a combination of ailments. He had been ill for several months, but his condition was not regarded as serious until Friday.

A daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ludlow W. Stevens, were at his bedside when he died.

Mr. Gould was one of seven children of George J. Gould and his first wife, Mrs. Edith Kingdon Gould. It was the interest of the son of Jay Gould in the ancient game of court tennis that inspired the grandson to become a champion.

The Bank of France was reported to provide 15,000,000 francs, the Michelin Tire Company, one of the largest creditors, 5,000,000 and various banks and private persons the remainder.

THUGS HUNTED IN VANCOUVER

Two Hold-ups Reported; Several Homes Entered Over Week-end

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—Underworld characters were busy in Vancouver over the week-end, staging two bold holdups and looting several city homes. One arrest was made by police.

Two bandits, one of them armed with a nickel-plated revolver, and operating from a stolen automobile, held up Jang Chong, proprietor of a vegetable store on West Fourth Avenue, and escaped with the cash register containing $180 in cash.

Chong told police the two men entered his establishment and while one held him and two other employees with a gun, the other carried the cash register to a car outside. The other then withdrew with a warning not to move and the two sped away at high speed. A pedestrian who witnessed the holdup took the number of the car, which investigation proved to be a stolen machine.

James Smythe, fifteen-year-old delivery boy for a London Grocery store, was held up and robbed of $3.50 in cash by two men. The boy related to police that the two stopped him and while one held his bicycle the other went through his pockets and took the cash. When he resisted he was struck and knocked down and the men fled.

A large quantity of butter, cigarettes and tobacco was carried off by thieves who looted the D and K Economy store on Marine Drive late Saturday evening. One man was arrested by police and held in connection with the robbery.

SALES TAX FOR EDUCATION

Proposal For Revenue Is Before Committee in Vancouver For Study

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 28.—Proposals by which the British Columbia Government would levy a sales or turnover tax to finance educational services now charged to property owners were advocated to-day by members of the semi-public committee on taxation appointed by the Vancouver city council.

The subject was referred to the investigation of a sub-committee, with instructions to find out the probable yield of such levies and the methods of enforcement used in other countries. The possibility of changing Vancouver's property assessment system to conform to standards used in Great Britain will also be studied by the committee, comprising J. F. Nicholls, J. C. McPherson and City Comptroller Walter Wardhaugh.

Both subjects reflected an apparent conviction that land cannot pay its present tax burdens, and that taxation should have a fixed relationship to earning power.

INTEREST CUT

Pointing to the steady reversion of property to the city for non-payment of taxes, Mr. Nicholls suggested an incentive might be offered to owners to pay their arrears by cutting the interest rates on them.

City Comptroller Wardhaugh undertook to investigate the matter as a possible alternative to a tax consolidation scheme which the city council has under advisement. It was pointed out by City Treasurer A. J. Pilkington that the Municipal Act was amended in 1933, with an extension for 1934, to provide that taxpayers in arrears might be given a rebate of half their penalties and interest if they paid their levies before the date of the tax sale.

TAX STRIKE

"Some individuals I know of are on a 'tax strike,' but they could pay up if they were forced to do so," Mr. McPherson observed. "I don't think the city should help that type of man."

He supported the proposed sales tax, claiming it would hit those able to pay, because "the more a man spends the more he is taxed."

R. P. McDermid had suggested an income tax to pay for education. He was convinced education was a provincial responsibility. The committee had already decided that unemployment relief was properly a Dominion problem, leaving assessment difficulties as the chief concern of the city, he argued.

FIFTY PER CENT REDUCTION

A request from Mayor G. G. McGeer for support from the committee in his efforts to obtain a 50 per cent suspension of Vancouver interest payments by negotiation with bondholders was conveyed to the committee by Acting Mayor C. E. Tisdall, chairman.

A resolution will be drafted by George E. Martin for passage by the board at its next meeting, billed for 10 a.m. Friday.

"I would not hesitate a moment in approving it," Mr. Martin declared.

He was echoed by Mr. McPherson, who claimed the action was a "laudable" one which deserved commendation.

Wall Street List Slips Lower; Rails And Metals Heavy

Associated Press

New York, Jan. 28.—Financial markets generally found the going a bit slippery to-day and prices on the whole were inclined to slip into lower territory. The rather heavy tone displayed by rail and metal stocks tended to discourage bullish enthusiasts. The majority of stocks were on the decline in the morning, and trading lapsed into dullness when moderate support appeared later.

The major grains dropped nearly two cents a bushel and cotton was soft. Bonds were quiet and slightly irregular. Foreign exchanges came back after early weakness.

MEXICO PLOT IS REVEALED

Agents in United States Also Named in Connection With Armed Rebellion Plans

Associated Press

Mexico City, Jan. 28. — Detailed plans naming agents in Mexico and the United States to take part in an armed revolution against the Mexican government are being examined by officials while five alleged plotters face trial on charges of sedition.

The plans, according to the official government newspaper El Nacional, had not passed the stage of naming agents before being discovered and upset by government action.

The five men were allegedly representatives of Gen. Antonio Villarreal, defeated presidential candidate in the last election, and of Jose Vasconcelos, who has been in exile since he lost in the 1929 presidential election. The Attorney-General consigned the five to trial.

The contents of documents seized at the home of one of the plotters and on the person of a railway conductor were not disclosed, but were believed to have involved a number of other persons.

FOUND AT POLICE STATION

Announcement of discovery of the plot resulted from persistent efforts of friends to discover the whereabouts of a young lawyer, Andres Pedrero, who had been missing several days and finally located at police headquarters.

After he was found the government made known that he and others were being held incommunicado on sedition charges.

A dispatch published in the newspaper El Universal yesterday quoted Gen. Juan Almazan, chief of the military zone at Nuevo Leon, as stating all rebel bands operating in that state had been wiped out.

The paper La Prensa said extraordinary precautions taken along the entire border had stopped rebel activities in that section, and that federal troops had exterminated all insurgent groups in border states except one in the state of Coahuila.

London Suspends Vancouver Bonds

Ames & Company, bond dealers, have received notification from their Toronto office to-day that the London Stock Exchange had temporarily suspended trading in Vancouver bonds listed on that market.

It is understood the bonds have not been removed from the listing but simply that trading has been suspended for the time being, pending outcome of the movement on the part of the Vancouver City Council to try to effect a negotiated 50 per cent reduction in interest with the bondholders.

The action followed the exchange of cables last week between the exchange and Mayor G. G. McGeer, who stated he was determined the interest on the bonds must come down.

SIX DIE AS HOME BURNS

Associated Press

Goshen, N.Y., Jan. 28.—Six persons perished in their beds early yesterday when fire destroyed their living quarters at Greenwood Lake, a small summer resort twelve miles north of here.

Those who lost their lives were: Arthur Beattie Jr. thirty-one; Mary Anne Beattie, twenty-six, his wife; Oscar Anderson, a Bronx patrolman, thirty-four; Julia Anderson, his wife, thirty-two; George, five, and Dorothy, three, children of the Andersons.

An eight-year-old son of the Beatties owes his life to the fact that he spent Saturday night with his grandparents, who live next door.

The four-room apartment in which the six perished was over a garage. Sub-zero weather prevailed, and the flames were already leaping high when they were discovered by James Utter.

Sentences Given 176 Catalonians

Associated Press

Barcelona, Jan. 28. — Prison sentences ranging from six months to three years were given at the week-end to 176 Catalonian farmers who were arrested last October on route to the capital to join the revolt.

Thirty-nine of the defendants were acquitted. Most of them contended they had been summoned to the city to join a huge celebration of the proclamation of the Catalonian republic.

Government witnesses testified, however, that the farmers were urged by radio to leave their homes and take up arms against "Spanish forces."

BOND MARKET CLOSE HEAVY

Canadian Press

New York, Jan. 28.—Selling movement, moderate to strong in the secondary rail group, gave that section of the bond market a heavy tone in the late trading to-day.

Low-price communication issues also needed support, but other utilities and most industrial issues were steady. United States government bonds were irregular, with treasury issues showing a majority of gains. Most Liberty bonds and guarantee issues were slightly lower.

Group Arrested In Uruguay

Terra Government Says It Has Foiled Revolutionary Plot

Associated Press

Montevideo, Uruguay, Jan. 28.—The government claims to have thwarted a revolutionary plot scheduled to start yesterday in the province of Minas, sixty miles from the capital.

About fifty members of opposition parties, chiefly among the Batllist and Nationalist independent groups were in custody to-day.

Some soldiers were among those who were seized yesterday.

Foes of the regime have engaged in sporadic anti-government activities since President Gabriel Terra by a coup in March, 1933, abolished the Executive Council, which had shared administrative authority with him.

Among the alleged plotters in custody here are three former ministers of the Batllist government, Santino Rosat, Ricardo Couto and Eduardo Castillo.

BOMBS IN HOMES

Six former deputies and a lieutenant were seized in the raid. Police announced bombs and arms were found in their homes.

Former Deputy Alberto Zuviria, who was sought, temporarily foiled police by seeking refuge in the Peruvian legation.

Those arrested in Minas province included nine deputies. A quantity of arms was captured. It was expected to-day those arrested would be exiled.

COMPLICATED SITUATION

The Uruguayan political situation is complicated not only by the virtual dictatorship of Terra, but by the presidential situation as well. Originally elected for the 1931-35 term, he had his term extended to 1938 when a picked assembly revised the constitution following his 1933 coup.

Terra last year talked of resigning in March, 1935, when his original term would have expired, but recently he announced he would fill the entire new term until 1938 because politicians were unable to pick a successor.

Terra is virtual dictator of Uruguay, South America's smallest republic. He was re-elected President for a four-year term in March, 1934, by a constitutional assembly which he had appointed himself.

NAZI BIRTHDAY ON WEDNESDAY

With Plans Near Fulfilment, They Will Mark Occasion With Food Distributions

Associated Press

Berlin, Jan. 28.—The Nazi administration will inaugurate the third year of its rule next Wednesday by distributing food and coal worth 20,000,000 marks.

January 30, anniversary of Hitler's seizure of power two years ago, has become a national holiday. In accordance with Nazi principle, the poorest of the poor are to share in the cheer of the holiday.

Fourteen million food certificates with one mark each and 6,000,000 coal certificates for one hundredweight of coal at one and one-half marks apiece will be given, out by winter relief organizations, headed by Paul Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda.

In two years the Nazis have attained power beyond their fondest dreams. So long as President von Hindenburg lived, the mere existence of that venerable symbol of German conservation acted as a brake on Nazi absolutism. Since August 2, when the Field Marshal-President closed his eyes forever, nothing has stood in the way of the complete realization of Nazi aspirations.

NO VOTE FOR JEWS

In one part of their programme, suppression of the Jews, they have succeeded so quickly and thoroughly that Wilhelm Frick, Minister of the Interior, recently announced the new constitution of the Reich, which will probably be ready in another two years, will debar them from the franchise. In other words, such few Jews as are left will then have to pay taxes and live up to other obligations of a citizen, but will be denied the right to vote.

Another major aspiration of the Nazis was to abolish state lines and centralize all power in the hands of the federal government. In this, too, they have succeeded. As Reichsminister Frick says, "All ministers of the Reich, all Statthalters of the Reich, all officials, officers and soldiers are responsible to Adolf Hitler and to him alone."

PRESS MUZZLED

To complete muzzling of public opinion, another Nazi ideal—though clothed in the garb of an "inner direction" has been accomplished with a thoroughness equalled perhaps only in Soviet Russia, though even in Soviet Russia at least the party press is allowed to criticize. German journalists are absolutely at the mercy of Dr. Goebbels's propaganda ministry.

But two years of Nazi rule have not been able to bring about regimentation of the church. The battle between Fundamentalists and Neo-Pagans is going on more merrily than ever. Also, Rome and Berlin are still fighting over the interpretation of the concordat with the Holy See, with little prospect that the Catholic Church will yield to the "totalitarian" claim of the State.

TRUCK WADES THROUGH CHEMAINUS RIVER

The Mahaney Transit Company truck is shown here as it battled through the flooded waters of the Chemainus River which ploughed across the Island Highway at Westholme. The water in places was about three and a half feet deep here. The road is clear now however, although the surface has been badly torn by the raging waters.

SOME OF DAMAGE IN COWICHAN AREA

The washout near Pagan's Ranch on the Island Highway between Cobble Hill and Duncan, which caused serious disruption of transportation service, is shown in the above view. The washout is about twenty-five feet long and ten feet deep and was caused by flooding of the Koksilah River which was a raging torrent as it tore up the road here. Department of Public Works gangs are shown constructing a bridge across the gap. On the right is the sidewalk across which Coach Lines passengers were transferred to busses on either side.

Tarzan of the Apes

Many days it was before Tarzan recovered from his violent battle with Torbun, the repulsive half ape. And then, one day, he had another encounter with three of the native, emerging victor, taking their weapons, ornaments, and wooden finery. The natives, now thoroughly frightened, believed him some demon, terrible god.

"Munango-Kuvuri," they called him, the evil spirit of the jungle, believing that those who looked upon him died. So the king ordered arrows and food to be placed just without the village to appease him. As long as they supplied him with these, they thought, he would not harm them.

Tarzan was returning to the cabin. When he came in sight of the beach, a strange and unusual spectacle met his vision. On the placid waters of the land-locked harbor floated a great ship, and on the beach a small boat was drawn up. And men—the himself—were moving about.

He crept closer, saw the men talking loudly, gesticulating, shaking their fists. Presently a little man held his hand upon the shoulder of a giant near him, pointing inland. As the big man turned to look, the man-fiend ran his knife into the back, knocking him forward—dead.

The report of the weapon, the first Tarzan had ever heard, filled him with wonderment. Were such white men his brothers? Violently the man knocked the body, jerked into it and spread away toward the giant ship. Then Tarzan slipped back to the cabin. Everything had been remarked.

Would You Want Your Wife to Make Over Your Mate?

Maybe Probably Wife Won't Be More Subtle!

A CORRESPONDENT in a newspaper story, a bridegroom who put faith in the old adage, "A woman, a dog and a walnut tree, the more you beat them the better they be," undertook to train his wife as he did his dogs, with a whip. He slapped her about and beat her and told her that that made good dogs and it ought to make good wives, but the system went wrong in this particular case. The bride did not lick the hand that struck her. She bit it. She upped and left her trainer and is now suing him for divorce.

Reading this, we all throw up our hands in horror and exclaim "What a brute!" and express a fervent hope that the abused lady will get her divorce absolute and all the alimony that the traffic will bear.

But, in reality, don't we all do it? Was not this man only doing in a crude way what practically all husbands and wives do more subtly, and that is try to make over their mates more nearly to their hearts' desire?

Why otherwise intelligent and reasonable men and women do not pick out, in the first place, the kind of wives and husbands they want instead of selecting something that they know beforehand is going to be a misfit, and then try to mold it over according to their taste, is something that nobody can explain. But we all know from observation and from our own experience that the eclipse of the honeymoon and the thing that makes the first few years of marriage a battle that none of us like to remember, is the inability of a young married couple to take each other "as is."

It takes ten years for even the most broad-minded and philosophical husbands and wives to find out that animal training is not their forte, and that there are certain traits and habits in certain species that never can be altered. That there are wild creatures that never can be completely trained nor house-broken. Free creatures that will die if you shut them up in a cage, and birds of Paradise that can never be changed into domestic hens.

The latter years of marriage are almost invariably happier than the earlier ones. Old husbands and wives get along together more harmoniously and with less friction than younger ones. All of us can number among our acquaintances husbands and wives who fought together like cats and dogs and were always on the verge of divorce when they were first married, but who settled down later on into placid contentment and a devotion to each other that turned their home from a storm spatted into a haven of peace.

The reason for this is obvious. Either through a sense of justice, or from despair at obtaining no results after years of labor, or from sheer weariness and exhaustion they gave up the impossible task of trying to cut each other over according to their individual pattern. That left them free to enjoy each other's good qualities and put a stop to the vicious fault-finding.

And the pity of it all is that this knowledge that human nature cannot be changed, nor a man or woman alloyed to suit the fancy of a wife or husband, comes only after they have wasted years that should have been sweet, in bitter quarreling and exhaustious and recriminations and made their marriage a failure.

The very idea that a man can make any sort of rubber stamp he pleases out of any girl he marries, or that a woman can fashion a quilting out of any man that she scrapes out of the gutter, is a mere idiot's delusion. Yet thousands of young people marry on this theory. A man will marry a girl he knows to be extravagant and clothes-mad, believing he can train her into being a penny-pincher and a wearer of hand-me-downs. Or a man will marry a girl who cares for nothing but pleasure and running the streets and having good times, thinking it will be no trouble at all to teach her to be a good cook and a homebody.

Or a girl will marry a drunkard thinking she can reform him, or a spender believing she can domesticate him, or a lazy loafer believing that she can turn him into a go-getter.

But heredity and home training have got in their work twenty years or more before the husband and wife have got a start on their reformation programs. The characters and habits have hardened into concrete that all the pushing and nagging of those to whom they are married against make over into the image they wish.

The man who tried to teach his wife to walk at his heels by means of a dog whip failed. So does the husband fail who carries his wife out a leash and deprives her of all freedom of action. So does the wife who tries to make her husband roll over and play dead and jump through the hoop at her order. All of which suggests that husbands and wives cannot be made to change their natures and habits, and that if you want to be happy though married, you must take them even as God made them.

EIGHTY HELD BY DAKOTA POLICE

Associated Press

Fargo, N.D., Jan. 28.—Eighty men were taken into custody here yesterday after special police officers had used tear gas bombs in a raid on headquarters of General Drivers' Union No. 116, whose coal, ice and transfer handlers are on strike.

These held were charged in a wholesale with rioting and inciting to riot. The raid on headquarters followed a disturbance earlier in the day when a group of about thirty men went to the Fargo Detroit Ice Company's plant on the Red River, where a number of men were cutting ice.

Officers said the attempt was made to halt the ice cutting by throwing bombs into the river.

The coal, ice and transfer drivers went on strike more than a week ago. They sought recognition of the union and reinstatement of two discharged union men. Several conferences have failed to bring about a settlement.

Coal deliveries were made last week to Fargo consumers, some through a one day truce, and at other times despite minor disturbances.

New Dodge Is Beautiful Car

1935 Models Now on Display at Begg Motor Company; New Features Enhance Beauty and Efficiency of Popular Automobile

The patented floating power engine mountings—which have been a Dodge feature for several seasons—are used in the 1935 Dodge models, with modifications involving a simplified front mount and a relocation of the dual rear mounts. The new cars are now on display at the Begg Motor Company Limited.

At the three points where it approaches the chassis frame, the power plant rests on rubber cushions bonded to steel bases in such a manner that no actual metal-to-metal supporting contact exists between the engine and the chassis frame.

DODGE INSTRUMENTS

Modernistic beauty and gently improved legibility distinguish the centre-mounted instrument panel of the new Dodge. The numerals and divisions of the airplane-type speedometer—which is graduated up to 100 miles per hour—are unusually large; they are flanked by the oil and gasoline gauges at the left and by the engine temperature indicator and ampere meter at the right. Instrument panel illumination is direct, by lamps that go "on" when ignition and lights are switched on, and "off" when returned into their socket.

RADIATOR TOUCH

The established radiator ornament of Dodge, in "Onto Mandalay," the "Flag-Staff," or Rocky Mountain sheep, emblematic of sure-footedness, speed and agility. The figure, being fixed in position, need not be removed for replenishing the cooling water supply. The new location of the radiator filler cap, under the engine hood, also avoids the danger of spilling anti-freeze solution on the fine lacquer finish of the car.

DUTTY BOX

A useful and appointed feature included in the instrument panel layout is a commodious parcel compartment, a sort of motorist's dirty box, in which he or she keeps touring impedimenta such as gloves, maps, books and the like.

THERMOSTAT CONTROL

The flow of water through the cooling system of the Dodge "Red Ram" engine is regulated by a thermostat operating a by-pass valve in the water riser outlet. With this arrangement, the circulation of the water through the radiator remains relatively slow until the engine reaches the proper operating temperature; after that the flow is faster or slower in keeping with the heat attained by the engine.

BRAKES

In addition to other mechanical innovations, the hydraulic brakes of the new Dodge now provide an increase of 30 per cent in braking area. In addition to the pedal-operated four-wheel service brakes, the car is equipped with a manually actuated parking brake mounted in the rear of the transmission.

CLUTCH AIR-COOLED

The clutch of the new car is effectively ventilated through openings in the clutch housing rim and through screen-guarded openings in the side of the clutch housing. Because the clutch is kept cooled, it stands a lot of abuse without reducing its efficiency. Clutch wear is further minimized by a spring-fastened hub in which the springs act to absorb the shocks of clutch engagement and disengagement.

NEW SUSPENSION

Of interest among mechanical innovations distinguishing the 1935 models, is a new front suspension. The system incorporates a rigid front axle, double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, leaf springs of twice the usual softness, and the Dodge ride "levelator," operating between rubber cushions and controlling the spring action.

The new suspension, termed "synchromatic," marks another great forward step in riding comfort and gives the sought-after smooth ride, free from rolling or sway, and keeps the chassis and body level while one or the other front wheel passes over road inequalities.

AUTOMATIC SPARK

On the 1935 Dodge cars, the spark timing has been rendered so completely automatic as to make the conventional hand spark lever obsolete. A double spark control is provided, one by the action of the centrifugal governor, the other by the automatic vacuum control which gives additional spark advance under part-throttle driving conditions, and a correctly timed retardation under engine load. The automatic vacuum control is said to give the engine more spirited performance and to act as a fuel economy factor.
